ITALY STAND ALARMS ALLIES

PARIS, May 1 (AP)—The Italian attitude toward the Allies "has become definitely alarming" in the last two days, a foreign ministry spokesman declared at a press conference today. The spokesman said the foreign office's concern over future relations with France's Mediterranean neighbor was "frankly uneasy." He added that the ministry's apprehension was based on the general atmosphere in government and diplomatic circles in Rome rather than on specific facts.

Paris papers gave front page display to the precautions taken by the British in forbidding use of the Mediterranean sea to British merchant ship through traffic.

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia, May 1 (AP)—Reports of Italian military activity near the Yugoslav frontier worried authorities in Croatian Slovenia and Dalmatia today.

Italian coal imports from Germany by way of Slovenia have been virtually suspended. This was attributed to heavy military traffic on Italian railroads leading to the Yugoslav frontier.

Railway workers said they saw a trainload of tanks being moved in Italy, and others reported erection of new anti-aircraft defenses at the northern Italian ports of Fiume and Trieste.

BRITISH AIR RAIDERS BOMB NAZI BASES

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—The Air Ministry announced today that the British planes had bombed German airdromes at Stavanger and Fornebu in Norway and at Aalborg, in Denmark, last night, doing "heavy damage." The announcement said seven British planes were lost and three German planes were known to have been shot down. Further attacks were carried out this morning, it was said.

Berlin Aims to Drive British Army Into Sea

BERLIN, May 1 (AP)—Heavy new blows to British naval power and steady strengthening of the Nazi hold on Norway were reported by the high command today as the German army, jubilant over its swift successes, mapped a sweeping concentric attack aimed at driving Allied forces into the sea.

The high command's communique said German aerial bombs had sent a British cruiser, a destroyer and five transports to the bottom and had damaged another cruiser and five other transports.

BRITAIN ADMITS SETBACKS

LONDON, May 1 (INS)—Based on their findings on German communique, British officials today virtually admitted the loss of Domstad and Støren and conceded that the allied position in the central Norwegian front is "dangerous." The situation is still obscure, a high authority said, and there is still no official confirmation that the Germans have taken these two strategic towns.

"But it is possible that both towns are in German hands in view of the claims of the German high command," the spokesman said.

It was pointed out, however, that with allied "demolitions and bombings" proceeding behind the German lines, maintenance of Nazi communications might prove extremely difficult.

In this connection, it was said that in their tremendous effort to join forces near Støren, the German forces ran ahead of their communications. For this and other reasons, the spokesman declared, the Germans may find it exceedingly difficult to maintain a constant flow of men from Oslo to Trondheim.

"The air force attacked British sea forces successfully before Namsos," the communique said. "One anti-aircraft cruiser was sunk by two direct hits, one heavy cruiser was damaged seriously aft by a direct hit of light caliber."

"In addition, one destroyer and five British transports sank after being hit, while five others suffered severe damage."

4900 PRISONERS TAKEN

Declaring "the German advance in Norway continues," the high command reported that German forces had taken more than 4900 prisoners.

On the front, it said merely that "at Trondheim fighting still went on yesterday," without indicating how near Trondheim the battle was raging.

The prisoners, it said, were 40 Britons and 200 officers and 3500 men of the Norwegian second division, captured northwest of Lillehammer, and 1200 other enemy troops, who laid down their arms in the mountains near Lom.

Seized arms at Lillehammer, it said, included seven cannon, 123 machine guns and 250 motor vehicles in good condition.

The British, meanwhile, were said to have met reverses in their air forces.

9 BRITISH PLANES DOWNED

The high command declared eight British warplanes were shot down by German pursuit craft and

Mine Plane Crashes; 7 Killed, 100 Injured

LONDON, May 1—A cargo of mines that exploded when a German Heinkel bomber fell at Clacton on the Essex coast was blamed today for the deaths and wide destruction caused by the crash.

It was announced officially that as far as is known, three civilians were killed and more than 100 injured when the plane plummeted to earth during the night. Four German airmen aboard the plane also were killed.

The crash was accompanied by a tremendous explosion as the blow detonated the mines, originally intended to cripple shipping along the coast.

Falling in flames, the German craft set on fire or otherwise damaged 50 houses.

An earlier communique, issued by the home ministry in the belief

only one civilian had been killed, stated:

"The number of casualties caused by the fall of an enemy aircraft at Clacton is now reported to be five killed and 90 wounded, of whom 49 were admitted to hospitals."

"It is possible there may be other bodies under the wreckage. Of the five bodies so far recovered, four were Germans. About 50 houses were damaged."

The damages were estimated unofficially at about $500,000.

An earlier communique said the plane crashed after British anti-aircraft guns went into action against enemy planes which approached the east coast of England at several points.

Witnesses said the center of Clacton looked as though it had undergone an artillery bombardment, traffic was completely disorganized today and bus service was rerouted around the town.

By an ironic coincidence, Clacton hotel operators, seeking to assure the public of the safety of the resort, announced only yesterday that guests would be given a one-third discount on their bills for any day on which a bomb fell near the town or a mine exploded near the promenade pier.

Italy Silent On British Ship Orders

ROME, May 1 (AP)—Italian authorities considered in official silence the "precautionary" diversion of British shipping from the Mediterranean to the longer route around the tip of Africa.

Those who usually speak for the government said they officially were without any knowledge of the British announcement, which said the move was "necessary" because of the pro-German attitude of the spokesmen of the Italian regime.

In some foreign circles the British announcement was interpreted as a move to draw some clearer statement of Italy's intentions in the war, particularly since there was little sign of tension in the Mediterranean itself.

The press ignored the British announcement.

United States Ambassador William Phillips called upon Premier Mussolini to receive first-hand information of Italy's position and intentions in view of recent developments in the international situation.

The impression prevailed in political quarters that no change in Italy's policy of non-belligerence was in prospect.

British Divert Shipping From Mediterranean

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Great Britain, alarmed by growing signs of Italian hostility and intimations that Italy might join Germany in war, has diverted her lifeline shipping from the Mediterranean.

"Pronouncements by Italians in responsible positions and the attitude of the Italian press have been recently of such a character as to make it necessary for His Majesty's government to take precautions as regards British shipping which would normally pass through the Mediterranean," said an authoritative statement.

The order that Britain's shipping

Man, 60, Kills Young Woman, Shoots Himself

SPRINGFIELD, May 1—A June-December romance ended in tragedy here today when a 60-year-old retired factory superintendent shot and killed a 34-year-old woman and then turned the gun on himself.

The woman victim, Miss Theora Gray of College ave., died at Wesson Memorial Hospital half an hour after the shooting.

The slayer, Walter E. Cabbie, was reported near death at the same hospital with a bullet wound in the temple.

Cabbie roomed and boarded in the Gray home in one of Springfield's best residential districts, according to police.

MOTHER HEARS SHOTS

Today's shooting took place in the dining room, while the victim's mother, Mrs. M. Grace Gray, was in the kitchen nearby.

Hearing the two shots in rapid succession, the mother and a son, William, rushed into the dining room.

Miss Gray lay bleeding on the floor.

Cabbie was slumped nearby, blood streaming from his head and an automatic pistol by his side.

Mrs. Gray said she heard no quarrel or argument. She told police she knew of no reason for Cabbie's act.

Deputy Police Chief John P. Fleming, who took charge of the investigation, said he had evidence Cabbie and Miss Gray were sweethearts.

ROMANCE BROKEN OFF

He would not discuss a report that plans for their marriage had been broken off.

Cabbie was formerly superintendent of the Cheney Bigelow Wire Works here.

Miss Gray was employed in a clerical capacity in the factory office.

Police said the bullet struck Miss Gray in the back and tore through her chest, probably touching her heart.

Cabbie's wound was in the right temple. The bullet passed through the upper part of his skull. Doctors held no hope of his recovery.

Commons Laugh In Nudity Query

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—The House of Commons had a laugh today over the recent row stirred by nude entertainers in London shows.

A member asked, "where can these entertainments be seen?" But the Home Office spokesman remained silent amid shouts of "Answer, answer."

WELLESLEY SENIORS LINE UP FOR START OF HOOP ROLLING RACE
And Tradition Names the Winner as the First Bride of the Class

Girl Reports Ma's Victory At Wellesley

Not "like father, like son" was it today at Wellesley College, but "like mother, like daughter"—and pretty, 20-year-old Martha Attridge, from Morristown, N. J., won the seniors' annual hoop-rolling contest.

Back in 1907, Martha's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Attridge, outfooted all her classmates in senior year at Wellesley at the hoop-rolling, in which tradition has it that the victor will be the first in her class to wed.

MOTHER WAS VICTOR

Not long afterward, the mother married Thomas Attridge, who had been a noted Princeton miler in the early part of the century and who now is a minister at Morristown.

Rosy-cheeked after her win, Martha said today, however, that while she goes with a Harvard man (unidentified) she is not engaged and has no immediate plans at all for marriage, despite tradition.

There were about 300 laughing, excited girls, in their prettiest frocks, who took part in the 1939 hoop-rolling, and there was quite a bit of jockeying for positions at the start.

RECEIVES BOUQUET

This was because, unlike last year, the seniors were not allowed to remain up all night to hold places in the front row for the historic event.

The winner was presented with a bouquet of white lilies by Martha Curtis, president of the senior class.

MARTIN'S VOTE SURPRISES

With Massachusetts' presidential preference primaries over for 1940, political observers were agreed today that the outstanding feature of the balloting on both sides was the surprisingly low fourth vote on the Republican ticket given Cong. Joseph W. Martin.

Nationally viewed as Republican presidential timber, Martin of North Attleboro is on the four-man unpledged slate which snowed under the Republican old-age pension slate headed by William H. Mcmasters, who had pledged his group to Thomas E. Dewey.

But Governor Saltonstall, U. S. Sen. Cabot Lodge, Jr., and former State Treasurer John W. Haigis of Greenfield, gubernatorial nominee in 1936, all led Martin in the balloting which returned the unpledged delegation by a 5-to-1 margin.

Throughout the State, the vote given Governor Saltonstall was nearly 13 per cent larger than that given Cong. Martin.

Democrats, save in four instances, go down the line for Postmaster-General James A. Farley.

Of the 72 delegates elected by the Democrats—the 12 delegates-at-large having one-third of a convention vote each, the 60 others having half of a vote—69 are pledged for Farley.

Two of the three who broke the official Democratic slate will go to Chicago at least technically unpledged. The third exception also is unpledged, but has recorded himself publicly in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt.

$15,000,000 El Refund Plan Urged on Governor, Council

Gov. Saltonstall, Lieut.-Gov. Cahill and the eight members of the Governor's council today received from Henry C. Rowland, Beacon st., attorney, a letter showing how the Boston Elevated can realize $15,000,000 for return to tax-burdened cities and towns.

Rowland, citing State Department of Public Utilities reports, said the immediate sale of Elevated power plants to the Boston Edison Co. would bring $15,000,000. The funds so realized, he declared, can be used to retire the loan advances the state has made

BULLETIN

Reversing their action of last week, the Governor's Council today approved payment of the Boston Elevated deficit of $2,724,169 by a voice vote, the only absentee being Councilor Daniel H. Coakley. Approval was on a motion by Councilor Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., of Hamilton, the reason given by members of the council being that communications from Mayor Tobin and the Boston Finance Commission contained no information warranting further holdup of payment.

in Boston and 13 cities and towns which are required by law to make up the annual operating losses of the railway.

WOULD REPAY TOWNS

In his letter Rowland also pointed out that the Elevated can buy

Coakley Absent In El Fund Fight

Absence from the city of Governor's Councilor Daniel H. Coakley today influenced conjecture over the sale of Gov. Saltonstall's move for payment of the $2,724,169 El deficit that was tabled, 7 to 6, last week. Coakley's office said he was called to New York on business that could not be delayed. Coakley led the fight against payment last week after a heated exchange between the Governor and former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelley, who has long fought for an audit of Elevated accounts.

power more cheaply than it can produce it and a switch to the Edison Co. would result in annual operating savings of $1,500,000, an amount nearly equal to the annual deficit.

In his letter Rowland stated: "If that sale should now be made, the Department of Public Utilities has authority to determine the disposition of the money received from the sale of said 'power plants' to the various 14 cities and towns in proportion, or, in other words, they would all receive back the money which they were assessed and have paid since 1932 for 'deficits' or 'loan advancements'."

The Boston Edison Co., Rowland declared, has offered to make a long-term contract with the Elevated at a kilowatt hour rate nearly 50 per cent less than the "El's" power production cost.

The great need of the cities and towns concerned for tax relief was stressed by Rowland in outlining his proposals.

HUB NEEDS MONEY

Boston, he noted in particular, needs money to reduce its tax rate and adoption of the plan he termed sound and economical would return over $8,000,000 which it has loaned to the El via the deficit route since 1932.

There can be no doubt of the legality of selling El power plants to the Edison Co., and making a long term power contract with that company, Rowland told the state officials, in view of department of public utilities reports recommending such a procedure.

He directed attention to the 1927 and 1940 reports of the department advising the course he suggests.

Rowland quoted a portion of the 1940 report to Governor Saltonstall, which strongly recommended the power plant sale on the basis there was a definite basis for such a course.

In concluding, Rowland reminded the state officials that it is within the power and authority of the Governor and Council to make the sale recommendation to the public trustees as an administrative duty.

Patient Dives In River, Saved

It seemed a nice day for it, so a 25-year-old patient at the Psychopathic Hospital scaled a 15-foot wall today and went for a swim in Muddy river, in the reservation adjoining.

The patient dived into the river clothes and all, which made it necessary for Arthur Wallace Tucker, Jr., also to dive in clothes and all after him.

Tucker, third-year student at Harvard medical school and son of a Lynn doctor, is attached to the Psychopathic and observed the patient going over the wall.

He pulled the man out of the river, with no damage done except to clothing.

The patient suffered himself to be led calmly back into escrow.

CRUSHED IN CRASH—James J. Kelly, 24, West Fifth st., South Boston, is near death today following an auto accident in Walpole, and his companion, John E. Murphy, 23, South Boston, is suffering from a brain concussion and body bruises. Kelly was thrown through the roof when car (above) skidded, hit a pole, and turned over twice. Both are in Norwood Hospital.

17 INJURED, 4 BADLY, IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Seventeen Greater Boston persons were listed as injured today, four in serious condition, as the result of skidding mishaps, hit-run collisions and two accidents involving city-owned vehicles.

James J. Kelly, 24, of West Fifth st., South Boston, was crushed in a crash in Main st., Walpole, today and his companion, John E. Murphy, 23, of D st., South Boston, suffered a brain concussion and numerous body bruises.

In Winthrop, a five-ton City of Boston truck skidded in Upland rd., and plunged down a steep embankment into the surf.

Another city-owned auto, a Boston Public Works Department ambulance on its way to City Hospital with a patient, slipped on the pavement of Chelsea south draw bridge and rammed an upright.

The driver, identified by police as John J. Ward of Temple st., West Roxbury, was cut about the face.

Six persons, including two women, were injured in a crash at Washington st. and the Circumferential highway, Dedham. One of the victims, Mrs. Lois Seavey, 49, of Alstead, N. H., suffered a skull fracture and broken hip.

Four Boston girls were hurt when a sedan and laundry truck collided at Exeter and Marlboro sts., Back Bay.

GENIUS PLEADS FOR JAIL TO ESCAPE PSYCHIATRISTS

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—John Reynolds Robertson, 3 former aide to Chief Justices Taft and Hughes of the U. S. Supreme Court, and credited by lawyers with being the outstanding authority on the jurisdiction of that court, today appeared voluntarily and pleaded with General Sessions Court Judge Freschi to send him to Sing Sing prison.

Freschi, who had imposed a 2½ to 5-year sentence on Robertson for months ago on a bad check charge, but had suspended execution of the sentence and placed him on probation instead, refused today to grant the unusual request. He committed the one-time legal genius to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

ORDERED BY DEBTS

A burden of debts he could not pay and the "mental beating" he had at the hands of psychiatrists were given as reasons why he wanted to go to Sing Sing. He said the court he had just left Bellevue, to which he had gone voluntarily for a mental checkup. Judge Freschi said the reports from Bellevue were inconclusive. He said Robertson is still suffering from a neurosis which was not originally by the heavy beating which led him from a distinguished place in his profession to a life of petty crime.

In January, Judge Freschi suspended sentence upon Robertson's promise never to touch liquor again. The prisoner said he had held up to that promise.

DEBTORS HOUND HIM

He told the court he had debts of more than $10,000. Since his romantic disbarment upon being convicted of forgery, he has been unable to earn a maximum of $50 a week, not enough to stave off hounding creditors. As to frequent psychiatric examinations, he said:

"It's an endless process in which I get nowhere. Four years ago they gave me a clean bill of health. Two years ago they did the same thing. Also three months ago, I have taken a regular beating and it must stop." Recommitted to Bellevue, Robertson remarked:

"If you send me back there, I'll keep my mouth shut. I won't talk to those psychiatrists. Send me to Sing Sing."

6 Record-American On Radio Tomorrow

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1940

News in the making will be described at first hand for radio listeners tomorrow night between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, when reporters and editors of the Record-American will collaborate with the staff of Radio Station WBZ-WBZA to give the public a word picture of how a great metropolitan newspaper functions.

News as it develops and as it is handled by city room veterans will be put on the air during the novel broadcast, one never previously attempted in newspaper and radio history.

The feature presentation has been arranged by the National Broadcasting Co. together with the WBZ-WBZA management and the Record-American management.

Details were completed through negotiations between Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Record-American newspaper twins; Walter Howey, executive editor of the papers, and Vincent F. Callahan, assistant general manager of the big radio station properties in Boston and Springfield.

Every angle of newspaper making will be covered, with the entire staff of WBZ-WBZA co-operating with the Record-American organization.

Special attention will be paid in the broadcast to methods of gathering and handling special types of news in sport, drama, society, radio and war.

The news-in-the-making radio presentation is in connection with observance of the second anniversary of the Record-American twins.

It is WBZ-WBZA's way of saying "Happy Birthday" to Boston's fast-growing, top-circulation picture newspapers.

TORNADO DEATHS IN 5 STATES

By the Associated Press

Tornado winds ripping across sections of southern Illinois, south-east Missouri, Arkansas and Kentucky, and a cloudburst in east Texas, killed at least 14 persons, injured many and caused thousands of dollars' damage last night.

Six were killed and eight injured, one critically, near Benton, Ark., as a tornado cut a 75-foot swath through a sparsely settled rural section.

At least two were killed and an unestimated number were injured as tornadoes bounced over south-eastern Missouri and southern Illinois. Thirteen persons from both states were taken to a Cairo, Ill., hospital. Six were hurt at Marion, Ill.

Heavy rain and hail accompanied swirling winds in the Mid-South, causing damage to crops. Water swept into stores at Thomasville, Ala.

A wind storm uprooted trees and unroofed several buildings at Owensboro, Ky.

New Books Opened In Runnells Probe

AUGUSTA, Me., May 1—Investigators today turned toward a probe of four additional departments of government in their efforts to uncover funds allegedly stolen and hidden by former State Controller William A. Runnells.

The new development was revealed by Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, who at the same time said a series of criminal prosecutions will follow the investigation of Maine's finances, supervised for eight years by Runnells.

Barrows declared, however, that only a few persons besides Runnells were involved.

The Governor also stated that a bill of equity has been filed in the State's efforts to restrain any member of the Runnells family from spending any money which might belong to the State. More than $43,000 has been found in safety deposit boxes held in the name of Runnells, his mother and brother, the Governor said.

The scope of the probe was being widened to include state institutions, the racing commission, toll bridge and motor vehicle receipts, Barrows said.

Willy's on the Hop, Waiting for Big Top

"I wonder what's come over Willy," said naive Mother Brown. "He's helping work around the house without a single frown. 'That's easy, Ma, look at the date,' winked wise old Father Brown. 'It's almost May the second—when the circus comes to town!'"

But actually the Greatest Show on Earth, bigger and better this year, more spectacular, more scintillating, la-adie-es and gentlemen-en, arrives today in Boston.

Carrying some 1600 performers, 50 elephants, more than 1000 menagerie animals, 100 horses and other animals and thrill devices, the highly decorated circus train was scheduled to reach North Station at 3 p. m.

HERE FOR 10 DAYS

Here for a 10-day stand beginning tomorrow, officials of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey said the 1940 edition offers new sensations for young and old.

One highlight was a mixed wild animal act consisting of savage beasts that perform incredible tricks under direction of Alfred Court, the French master trainer of animals.

Never before in America or in the world has such a collection been disciplined into a thrilling performance—a performance which includes polar bears, lions, tigers, leopards, black bears and Great Dane dogs in two groups, with black panthers, jaguars, pumas, cougars and giant ocelots in a third.

AERIAL SENSATION

New to Boston also is the aerial sensationist, Rola Rola, known as the "Adonis of the Andes," the agile, Eily Ardely, hailed as the successor of the late Lillian Leitelt; Aseanna and Charly, aerial trampoline rockets; the Akimotes, whirlwind acrobats, and the world's most famous juggler, Massimiliano Truzzi.

The opening parade is a pageant of color and beauty, "The Return of Marco Polo," designed and costumed in Paris by Max Weid of the Folies Bergere and Casino de Paris. And there are all the familiar favorites, including the famed Riding Cristiani family, the Flying Concellos, and the famous giant gorilla, Gargantua the Great, now grown more powerful and vicious than ever.

The Big Show trains carry 1600 people, 50 elephants, 1000 menagerie animals and more than 100 horses.

Stillman's Daughter Leaves $2,691,422

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—Mrs. Elsie Stillman Rockefeller, daughter of the late James Stillman, banker, left a net estate of $2,691,422, it was shown in a transfer tax appraisal filed here.

The principal beneficiaries are four sons.

PAL AIDED ROMANCE

PROVIDENCE, May 1—The late Col. Samuel M. Nicholson had a "woman friend" and Dutee W. Flint, his close friend, was entrusted with such confidential work as buying her automobiles and arranging for dental work.

So Flint testified in outlining some of the personal services he performed for the millionaire industrialist, whose estate he is suing for $1,000,000 on the basis of a promissory note for that amount. In re-direct examination, Flint told how Nicholson had chosen a Newport house for Flint and his family.

"He said he wanted that location because it would be handy to call on a woman friend of his," Flint said.

EXILED PRINCESS IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—Princess von Starhemberg, wife of the exiled former vice-chancellor of Austria and leader of the Austrian Heimwehr, was in New York today, resting in preparation for a serious operation, while the prince is fighting with the French.

Prince Ernest Rodiger von Starhemberg, deprived of German citizenship by the Nazi government, who confiscated his property last fall, sought permission of France to organize an Austrian brigade to fight Germany. The government accepted his offer to save against Germany and commissioned him an infantry lieutenant.

The prince made headlines in 1937, when he married Nora Gregor, Viennese actress, and mother of his 4-year-old son, after obtaining an annulment of his marriage to Countess Marie Elisabeth von Salm-Reifferscheid-Ratz from the ecclesiastical courts.

Lodge Probes Sale Of Planes to Allies

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

Special to The Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, May 1—Fearful America's needs in war planes are being sidetracked to permit speedy deliveries to the Allies, members of the Senate appropriations subcommittee in charge of military allotments revealed they would question army chieftains at hearings now under way.

The investigation of this phase of national defense was expected to start today as Sen. Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, who served notice he wanted to look into the matter, returned to the Capitol after the R. y State primaries.

16 MILLIONS TO SPEND
Lodge said he had a "lot of questions to ask" of army chieftains on the administration's policy of releasing planes to the Allies. He wants to question Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps.

"I want to make certain that our own Army and Navy will have all the most modern planes they need," Lodge said in an interview.

The subcommittee of which Sen. Elmer Thomas (D.) of Oklahoma is chairman, will have before it the House-passed bill carrying funds for the entire military establishment during the fiscal year beginning July 1. There is an allowance of $10,000,000 in it for fighting planes. The bill provides upward of $165,000,000 for the Army air corps.

About $300,000,000 has been appropriated by Congress to provide an Army air force of 5500 "useful" planes by July 1, 1941. The Army, which has 2700 planes on hand now, has placed orders for about 2800 new planes, Maj. Gen. Arnold has revealed.

Some Congressmen feel that the flood of foreign orders will crowd out orders for the American Army and Navy, and that American inventive genius is being worked day and night to supply foreign orders, thereby leaving the United States with few secrets.

"There isn't any doubt in my mind that the Roosevelt administration is slowing down purchases for our Army and Navy to make way for foreign orders," Sen. Danaher (R.) of Connecticut said.

"The administration apparently does not want any mandatory legislation by Congress to require a given number of planes to be bought for our own use," he added.

CLAIMS STRATEGY LOST

Rep. Melvin T. Mass (R.) of Minnesota, flatly charged in an interview that "our military secrets are being passed along to the Allies." Mass is a colonel in the Marine corps aviation reserve. He was a Marine corps flier overseas during the World War.

"They (administration spokesmen) say we are not giving the Allies any of our military secrets," Mass said. "I challenge that statement. The Allies are buying the latest types of planes produced in this country. They are buying planes of greater speed than any we have heard exist in Europe. Speed is a military secret and should be guarded for our own preparedness."

"Congress ought to pass legislation making it mandatory to buy a certain number of planes for our Army and Navy during the next year or two. It is not likely that if our Army and Navy had to have a certain number of planes that they would reveal their performance to any foreign nation."

CAMBRIDGE TO REPORT ON CENSUS

The population of Nahant has increased by 167 in 10 years, first 1940 census figures released in the area disclosed today.

Eugene J. Sullivan, district supervisor at Lynn, announced the results of a preliminary count, subject to possible slight revision, showing the town has a population of 1821 against 1654 listed in the 1930 federal census.

Cambridge has been tabulated, and figures on that city will be announced today by Supervisor John F. Aspell, Area Manager Patrick J. Murray said. It is expected that count of most of the cities in Norfolk, Middlesex, Essex and Suffolk Counties will be ready for release before the end of the week.

School Strike May Go to Court

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 1 (AP)—Parents of striking students of Lake Worth school said today they would go to court in an effort to have the institution reopened.

The board closed the school indefinitely after 72 of its 75 students walked out in protest of the board's action in not retaining the principal, V. R. Ramsey.

Three girls declined to strike. They accused Ramsey of making "embarrassing remarks" concerning Adolf Hitler's re-population program in Germany.

The striking pupils erected a wire fence across the entrance to the school grounds. Officers removed the wire.

The school board met behind locked doors to make its decision yesterday. Parents and students, waiting outside, hissed and booed the board members as they emerged.

FEAR FOR 10 ON SCHOONER

YARMOUTH, N. S., May 1 (AP)—Fear for the safety of 10 Nova Scotia fishermen was expressed today by Lawrence Sweeney, owner of the 65-foot auxiliary schooner Seretha, who said he believed a Soviet sighted off Cape Sable, N. S., Monday was his ship, long overdue.

GOVERNOR WARNS OF U. S. PERIL

Modern May Day is "a celebration of Americanism rather than a demonstration of Communism," as has been the case in recent years," Governor Saltonstall asserted today on Boston Common at a meeting sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars women's auxiliary.

Appearing on the platform at Parkman Bandstand with John C. Metcalfe, Dies Committee investigator, despite CIO criticism, the Governor said he was "willing to share the platform with anyone who believes as I do about our country."

In his address, he cautioned the large audience against the current "Trojan horse" technique of invasion in Europe.

"The aggressors bored their way from within," he said. "They lured enough people away from devotion to their own countries to make things easy for the invaders."

"Europe's kind of nationalism doesn't seem able to keep out the terms of the power-grabbing dictators. This country, thank God, stands on a foundation that cannot be shaken and through which no termite can bore."

In announcing earlier he would appear on the bandstand, Governor Saltonstall slipped back at George F. Markham, legislative agent for the CIO in Massachusetts, for criticism over his sharing the speakers' dais with Metcalfe.

Markham stated the Governor should refuse to appear with a representative of a committee who had "slandereously attacked labor."

The veterans' celebration of May Day was a patriotic program scheduled from 11 a. m. until 6 p. m.

A few hundred yards away on Charles st. mall, the Communists today put on their show. Speakers for the occasion were Anne Burak and Pat O'Dea, recently summoned to Washington to be questioned by the Dies committee on activities in behalf of the Communist party.

Polar Night Falls On Byrd Expedition

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—A four months' "blackout" has descended upon Little America and the government's Antarctic expedition.

A dispatch from the expedition's west base described how the long Polar night has settled down to stay until spring comes, Aug. 22.

Federal Tax Expert Aids New Hub Probe

Income tax trouble for several prominent local contractors identified with national and state public works programs were forecast today with arrival in Boston of Asst. U. S. Atty.-Gen. Gordon Tweedy who directed the prosecution of race track impresario Moe Annenberg.

Immediately on his arrival Tweedy went into a conference behind closed doors with U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon, Asst. U. S. Atty. Henry M. Leen and special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Leo M. Looney.

Both Leen and Looney have specialized in preparation of income tax evasion charges for prosecution by the Department of Justice. It was learned that final preparations for presentation of the cases, first since the dog track cases, to the federal grand jury are being made.

The grand jury is now in session and is occupied with narcotic and postoffice matters.

The presence of Tweedy here was taken as an indication the cases to be presented to the jury involve impressive sums in evaded tax payments.

While the nature of Tweedy's conference with Brandon and the tax case experts was not disclosed it is believed he came here to clear away any final difficulties in presenting the cases before the jurors. Tweedy is head of the criminal and compromise section of the income tax division.

MARTIN'S L VOTE MARKS STATE PRIMARIES

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1940

the 11th congressional district, comprising East Boston, Charlestown, the West End and two wards of Cambridge.

Here only one of the four Farley-pledged candidates, former Mayor Edward J. Voke of Chelsea, was successful in winning a place, and he ran this among the four chosen by the voters.

Former Rep. William H. Barker, now clerk of East Boston court and a candidate in Group 2 of the district, topped the balloting.

State Senator Bernard L. Sullivan of Chelsea, also of Group 2, came fourth, and John J. Sullivan of Boston, member of Group 1, was second.

GO DOWN TO DEFEAT

Farley-pledged state candidates who went down to defeat in this 11th District were Charles S. Sullivan, Frederick J. Mangini and George Y. Langman, all of Boston.

The Farley slate also was broken in the 4th District, where Edward A. Ryan of Worcester, unpledged candidate, squeezed in.

The Republican knitting of Cong. Martin in the balloting came after he had been subjected to scathing criticism from former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller for failure to favor Dewey outspokenly, although Martin himself has been Massachusetts' favorite son in the discussion of presidential candidacies.

Martin, pushed as a Republican compromise candidate for President or vice-president, had favored an unpledged delegation.

TABULATION DIFFICULT

As officials in the Boston Election Commissioners' office began the unofficial tabulation of the vote, they declared that it loomed as the "toughest job" they have ever had. The confusion has been caused principally, they said, by the manner in which the ballots were arranged, secondly by the large number of "bullet" or single choices cast, and thirdly by the manner in which many of the contests for ward committee were conducted.

While some voters marked a cross for entire slates, others marked crosses beside the names of individual candidates.

The result was that tabulators, in frequent instances, would count the number of straight votes, where the voter had voted the entire ticket.

WARD WANTS RECOUNT

Then the number of votes to individuals — "bullet" — would be counted, but frequently these votes were not credited to the individuals to whom they were given.

City Councillor Michael Ward was one of the early protestors. He estimated that more than 300 ballots had been tossed aside in his fight to break the Farley-pledged slate in the 10th Congressional District. A loser by considerably less than 200 votes, Ward announced early that he would seek a recount.

"We'll seek a recount," he stated.

"The way those ballots were marked it looked as if the voters thought they were at the race track and trying to pick a daily double."

McMasters conceded defeat early in his attempt to get Dewey delegates.

"Dewey men just didn't come out," he said. "The way it looks now, Dewey won't have a single delegate pledged to him in all of New England," he added.

HENDRICKS CLUB LOSES

The primaries seemed to sound the death knell of the famed Hendricks Club, once Boston's most powerful Democratic ward organization.

For the first time in nearly 60 years, control of the West End passed from the Hendricks Club, when a slate entered by Rep. George Leary and backed by the Shepherd's Club defeated the Hendricks group 2 to 1.

City Registrar James A. Burke, a member of Mayor Tobin's so-called Brain Trust, won election to the Democratic state committee from the Sixth Suffolk district, comprising Wards 12, 13 and 14. He rolled up a large vote in decisively downing Rep. Charles Kaplan, Israel Grossman and Harry Albert.

anti-aircraft guns in an attack on Stavanger.

It said the British lost another in the first of two raids on Fennebu, airport near Oslo—the latest early today—and had caused only slight damage.

The high command's report of continued fighting in the Trondheim region indicated that Allied resistance still was formidable in some areas in the path of the German advance.

A lack of reports from north of the Nazi-held port, where the British are believed to be strongly entrenched, was regarded as a sign of Allied opposition there.

BRITISH REINFORCEMENTS

That the cruisers reported bombed were said to have been off Namsos, 100 miles north of Trondheim, also was taken to indicate newly arriving reinforcements for the British.

The Germans, presumably, were engaged chiefly in consolidating their positions on the Dombas-Trondheim railroad.

Taking its cue from Hitler himself, who praised the army for having "fulfilled a tremendous assignment," the Nazi press predicted destruction of the Allied forces operating in the region of Andalsnes, on the coast south of Trondheim, unless they withdraw speedily.

After establishing a connection between Trondheim and Oslo yesterday the Germans now proclaim the isolation of the Allied troops which landed in the Andalsnes region.

"They will be caught by the closing German fist and will be lost," said the Berlin newspaper Volksbeobachter.

READY FOR MOP-UP

The Germans say it is only a question of time before they mop up the Allied troops there and Norwegian troops farther south around Voss on the Bergen-Oslo railway.

Hitler's own newspaper Volksbeobachter flatly stated: "The enemy has been defeated. The landing in the Moldefjord was a failure."

The Moldefjord is the body of water on which Andalsnes lies. The British troops which landed there were those which last week smashed down the railway to the important junction of Dombas and then north to Storöen, cutting off German-held Trondheim from Oslo.

It was these forces which the Germans defeated yesterday, capturing both Dombas and Storöen, according to the German army, and thereby, in their eyes, making the conquest of Norway virtually complete after three weeks of fighting.

From Fuehrer Hitler came a spirited order of the day to his troops in Norway in which he said, after mentioning the establishment of land communications between Oslo and Trondheim, that "there with the aim of the West Powers still to be able to force Germany to her knees by a belated occupation of Norway has been definitely frustrated."

British Still Claim Success at Roros

STOCKHOLM, May 1 (INS)—With Nazi resistance at Narvik reported near collapse, Allied sources in Stockholm claimed today that British troops have driven German forces from Roros, strategic rail center in the Oester valley.

The British dislodged the Germans from Roros in a swift, flanking movement, it was claimed, and then pursued them southward down the Oester valley, where a heavy battle was reported in progress today.

On the Narvik front Norwegian forces were said to have driven the German paratrooper from Gratangen, 20 miles north of the iron ore port above the Arctic circle. In addition, allied naval artillery batteries were said to have scored a direct hit on the German ammunition supply dump.

In still another reported reversal for the Germans, it was claimed that the German airbase at Hartvik was wrecked and 11 German planes there destroyed.

Refugees from the Narvik area expressed belief the Germans there could not hold out more than a week.

The British operations against Roros were based from Storöen which reached in British hands after a week's fighting, according to information reaching Stockholm.

net members. A five-hour SOS today sent an SOS saying she had run aground on Mayaguana island, 150 miles north of Haiti. Mackay radio, which received the distress call, said two American steamers, the Borinquen and the Santa Maria, are in contact with the distressed vessel.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1 (INS)—Flares bursting over the Pacific 1300 miles west of San Francisco, indicating a ship in distress, were sighted today by the Matson freighter Makawao, according to a radio message picked up here.

British 'Stop-the-War' Candidate Beaten

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Comdr. T. A. Gaisbush, a National Government candidate in a bye-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir John Gilmour, minister of shipping, was elected today, polling 17,650 votes to his opponent's 2401. It was the seventh defeat for "stop-war" candidates.

32,000 MARCH IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 1 (AP)—About 32,000 workers were called out today for a May Day parade before President Cardenas and Cabinet members. A five-hour suspension of street car and bus services was ordered.

IT'S A SIX-LETTER WORD THAT SHOULD DO YOU SOME GOOD!

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from May 1, 1940, to May 5, 1940, should be mailed to the Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2068, Boston, Mass. May 11, together with 10c in coin. In return for mailings, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

- The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the smaller Rebus Game members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.
- Beginning Monday, Feb. 12, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor of the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.
- One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.
- In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest score achieved by contestants in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
- In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged. To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.
- Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the awarding of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual entries) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.
- Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for losses or communications lost or for any delay in delivery from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

Million Is Offered For Hitler Capture

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—A Pittsburgh group offered today to pay a million-dollar reward for the capture of Adolf Hitler, unhurt, but specified that the German Fuehrer must be delivered into the custody of the League of Nations before the end of May.

Norse Pro-Nazi Claimed Killed

LONDON, May 1 (INS)—A report that Vikund Quilning, who served briefly as head of the puppet government established by the Germans at Oslo, Norway, has been assassinated was circulated today by the Exchange Telegraph (British) News Agency.

In a dispatch from Gothenburg, Sweden, the agency said that Norwegian refugees, interviewed by the Gothenburg newspaper Posten, claimed three young soldiers assassinated Quilning, a pro-Nazi Norwegian.

The shooting occurred April 15, the account said.

Sweden Will Stay Neutral, Says Premier

STOCKHOLM, May 1 (INS)—Sweden will maintain its neutrality "come what may," Premier Per Albin Hansson said in a May Day speech today.

"We are constantly pursuing efforts to safeguard the peace of our people," he told a large demonstration. "Our policy is one of strict and firm neutrality in relation to all sides—a neutrality which we are determined to maintain and defend come what may."

Japs Want No-War Pact On Philippines

TOKYO, May 1 (INS)—Japan is willing to conclude a non-aggression pact "in principle" covering the Philippine Islands, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The Japanese government, it was stated, is prepared to negotiate such a pact either with the Philippine government or with the United States.

Thousands With Weak Kidneys Now Sleep Sound All Night—

Gain in Health by Flushing Excess Poisons Out Through Kidneys—Easing Bladder Irritation, That Causes You To Get Up Nights.

Thousands of men and women wonder why sleeplessness bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why they wake up tired, grouchy and drabby.

These symptoms may mean that your kidneys are sluggish, causing bladder irritation and these minor symptoms may become serious if neglected.

To flush out excess waste poisons and

Samuel Harden Church, president of the $28,000,000 Carnegie Institute, announced the offer on behalf of an unnamed group, which he said was acting "in good faith," in a letter to the New York Times.

The unusual proposal brought back recollections of a daring post-World War scheme of a group of American soldiers to kidnap the German Kaiser from his refuge in Holland.

In his letter, Church said that Hitler should be delivered "for trial before a high court of justice for his crimes against the peace and dignity of the world."

Shortly after the armistice of 1918 a band of Americans who had served with the A. E. F. among them Col. Luke Lea of Tennessee and Larry McPhail, now president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, secretly entered Holland and traveled to Kaiser Wilhelm's "Haven."

According to legend surrounding the adventure, which the participants were reluctant to discuss in later years, the party actually entered Wilhelm's home, but fled when surprised by Dutch guards.

Church said his group was not over-optimistic about its chances of achieving its end, but it thought the possibility was worth encouraging.

"I believe in my heart," he continued, "that Mr. Hitler should be held as the common enemy of mankind and brought to justice accordingly."

All Not So Quiet Now Along Western Front

PARIS, May 1 (INS)—Renewed activity along the western front after a lull of several days was announced by the French war communiqué today.

"There was patrol activity in the region of Nied river," the war bulletin said. "There was artillery fire in the region of the Rhine river. Yesterday at night, a short encounter took place in the Vosges mountains between our reconnaissance units and an enemy party."

Rumania Ousts 200 Nazis in Oil Fields

BUCHAREST, May 1 (AP)—The Rumanian government was reported today to have signed orders for the expulsion of 200 Germans after a canvass of 609 homes in the oil field districts and other strategic areas of Rumania.

Chamberlain Talks On War Tomorrow

LONDON, May 1 (INS)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today promised the House of Commons he would make his long-awaited statement on Norway tomorrow.

use the long Cape of Good Hope route around Africa to sidestep Italian power in the Mediterranean was represented as a temporary precaution—to be enforced only so long as necessary.

ONLY TEMPORARY

A source close to the Foreign Office declared.

"We should frankly deprecate too much attention being paid to the notice that His Majesty's government has closed the Mediterranean for through traffic."

He described the measure as "purely precautionary and of a defensive character," added that it is the government's "earnest hope" that the measure prove temporary and declared the British still were hopeful of reopening trade negotiations with Italy.

At the outbreak of the war Britain routed her merchant ships around the cape for a while, until Italy's non-belligerent status seemed assured.

MRS. FREDERICK CAMERON CHURCH, whose husband is president of the board of the Boys Clubs of Boston, was Beantown's comely representative at the dedication of a new Boys Club in New York Monday . . . Looking petite and modish in a tailored blue suit and jaunty hat, she took her place among the guests of honor who included Herbert Hoover, president of the national organization, and J. Willard Hayden of Boston, trustee of the Charles Hayden Foundation which provided funds for the new building . . .

Mrs. Church is returning to Boston later this week to help out with plans for a festive dinner dance to be given at the Hotel Sheraton, May 23, for the benefit of the Corry Hill Hospital . . .

This affair, a sort of spring-time postscript to the popular series of winter dinner dances held at the Sheraton, is an invitation party run by many of the same dance enthusiasts . . . Baroness Krug von Nidda of Chestnut Hill is in charge of reservations and serving as patronesses are Mrs. Forester A. Clark, Mrs. B. Devereux Barker, Jr., Mrs. Merrill Griswold, Mrs. Morgan Harris and Mrs. Gelston King . . .

SALLY FOSTER, flutist, and Amy Lang, cellist, of the Junior League Orchestra, arrive at the League for rehearsal. Miss Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lang of Boston, inherits her musical talent from her father who is a noted organist. Miss Foster is the post deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Foster of Brookline.

For the Altar-Bound

GLAMOROUS TYPE gowns, with price tags running into three figures, occupied the attention of fashion-minded Bostonians luncheon at the Ritz Carlton yesterday during the showing of a collection of costumes for summer weddings, yacht club dances and honeymoons . . .

Polly Long, who is to be a June bride, modelled a number of perfect trousseau outfits, along with Nancy Nye, Bunny Shalit and several professional mannequins . . .

Taking time out from their many social activities to get a few pointers on what's what in the fashion world were Mrs. John Gardner Flint in a cute navy outfit with navy and white polka dotted taffeta turban and gloves; Andree Cassels and Mrs. Reginald Foster, Jr., whose navy reefer was enhanced by a white flower turban with a band of emerald taffeta securing it to her blonde hair . . .

Lunching at a table for two in a sunny window overlooking the Public Gardens was Mrs. Francis Hastings in navy with touches of white and nearby Mrs. John O'Day shared a table with several friends . . . Colby Alumnae Meet Friday

Alumnae of Colby Junior College will get together at dinner parties in many cities Friday evening to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the first graduating class.

Boston's banquet will be held at the Kenmore Hotel, under the supervision of Miss Althea Shumers of Brookline and Mrs. H. Frederick Gonneman, Jr., of Boston. Guests will include alumnae from Boston, the South Shore and Merrimack Valley.

Dr. H. Leslie Sawyer, founder and president of the Junior College, will address the banquet guests by radio and Mrs. James Donovan, director of the Volunteer Service Bureau, will also speak to the alumnae group.

Rose Ann Penne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Penne of Newtonville was one of 14 Stephens College students appearing in a modern ballet presented at the college by members of the Orchestra, an honorary dance sorority, this week.

DEMETRIOS ART SHOW MAY 16-18

Mary Elizabeth Sears, who has spent several winters studying art in Italy, will be one of the appreciative admirers of the work of Virginia Demetrios which is to be exhibited at Doll and Richards May 16 to 18.

Murals, wood panels and drawings are included in the exhibit which opens with a private view and tea Monday afternoon. The artist, wife of George Demetrios, the sculptor, is the former Virginia Lee Burton, daughter of Dean Alfred E. Burton, formerly of M. I. T.

Miss Sears will be a pourer Monday afternoon together with Anna D. Curtis, Cynthia Forbes, Rose Ginnell, Mrs. Margaret D. Nelson, Helen Shoemaker, Rosalind Higgins, Charlotte Hallowell and Mrs. Hans Zinsner.

Mistress Mary's Garden Train Cucumbers

By T. W. LEGGETT

To be fit to eat a cucumber should be picked just before it is served. Even if garden space is limited cucumbers can be grown without sprawling all over the ground. In greenhouses where they are grown for harvesting in cold weather, vines are trained on strings up to the glass.

Plant them in a sunny location. Train the vines up on fences, trellises or use them to shade the back porch.

Give cucumbers a rich soil.

Pick the cucumbers as soon as they are of suitable size and that will encourage production of fruit. If the vines become too long, pinch off the ends.

ANSWERS

MRS. W. A. S. Jr.—Prepare soil for dahlia beds by deep digging, making the soil fine in the operation. If old manure can be had, turn that under. Tubers can be planted now. Dig holes 6 inches deep. Separate the clumps and lay the tubers horizontally with the bud facing upward. Apply a pint or two of sheep manure 4 or 5 inches out from and around each tuber. Set the stake to support the plant, before covering the tubers. Set plants 3 feet apart.

A. K.—Store gladioli bulbs, each variety separately, in glass fruit jars, mixing thoroughly with fine, clean damp sand which has been sifted through a sieve as fine as a window screen.

COQUETTE—Looking forward to annual dance of the Coquette Club, to be held Friday evening at the Hotel Westminster, is Barbara Sepore of Jamaica Plain, member of the committee.

Brighton Army Hero to Retire

Retirement of Jack Killoran, of Foster at Brighton, after 31 years of service in the U. S. Army has been approved by President Roosevelt, according to word received today from Washington.

Killoran has been decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and the Purple Heart for gallantry in action. This service record includes duty in the Philippines, Mexico and France.

After entering the army in Boston Killoran served in the islands of Mindanao and Luzon in the Philippines. Later he was with the American Expedition in Mexico. During the World War he served two years overseas with the Fifth Field Artillery Brigade.

It's Tomorrow!

Circus!

Clowns and performers look out from behind circus wagon wheel . . . getting a first look at Boston and spring. Circus arrives today, comes tomorrow.

1. Big Day

Gertrude Robinson (left) of Cleveland and Jean Barnum of New Haven, Wellesley College seniors, make certain they won't be late starters in the annual hoop-rolling . . . and arrive early enough for a nap as they achieve almost perfect positions for the race. Tradition says that the girl who wins the race will be first of her class to wed. And sometimes 'tis so.

3. Line-Up

Now, back to the hoop-rollers . . . and above you see them, in their prettiest frocks, lined up with the contrary-minded circles . . . whose behavior is as unpredictable as a freshman. However, it's the start . . . and somebody's gonna win.

4. Winner!

And somebody did win Martha Attridge of Morristown, N. J., whose mother back in 1927, also won. Martha's mother was one of the victors who wed wed quickly . . . and Martha's going with a Harvard man.

AS THE RESULT of a resolution introduced by Councillor Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton and unanimously adopted at Monday's meeting, the Boston City Council will henceforth open all its sessions with a salute to the United States Flag.

At no other time in its long history has this city's legislative body taken a more patriotic stand.

COUNCILLOR SULLIVAN

Sponsors Flag Salute

At no other time has it set a more commendable example for the governments of all cities and towns to follow.

At no other time has it shown itself more keenly aware of the needs of the Commonwealth and nation.

We are maintaining our neutrality despite the efforts of native meddlers and imported propagandists to involve us in the bloodshed abroad.

We are holding to the system of government that built and preserved America although Fascists, Communists, crackpots and sundry revolutionists are doing their utmost to throw democracy overboard and to substitute some form of regimentation patterned after one or more of the various European and Asiatic tyrannies.

The symbol of our people's courageous determination to remain free and to move forward according to the American way is OLD GLORY.

Unchanged in colors and design, save for the addition of stars representing States that have joined our mighty Union, this proud emblem still betokens the valor of those thousands of Americans who so loved liberty that they died for it; still commemorates the ideals of the pioneers who, with tremendous suffering and sacrifice, pushed the nation's frontier across the continent; still endures as the universally acknowledged memorial of every thought, word and deed that went into the building of the greatest country the world has known.

Saluting the Flag and contemplating this inspiring picture of all we have and of all that it is within our power to continue to have, the members of the Boston City Council cannot fail to be better men and better officials.

They are bound to feel an increased sense of duty and a renewed appreciation of the responsibilities that have been entrusted to them.

It is profoundly to be hoped that the patriotic action of the Council will cause other governmental bodies and agencies to adopt similar ceremonies of respect and reverence.

Particularly are they needed in our Massachusetts courts, which are still called to order with the ludicrous and often unintelligible "Oyez, Oyez!" cry while tribunals in other States are beginning their sessions with the more impressively American invitation:

"All stand, please, and face the Flag of our country, which is the emblem of our Constitutional form of government."

to stand firm in its decision that Bertrand Russell, English philosopher and mathematician, join the University's faculty on schedule in September.

Persons responsible for the conduct of the distinguished Cambridge institution of higher learning seem little influenced by the action of the New York Supreme Court Justice who revoked Russell's appointment to a professorship at the College of the City of New York on the grounds that the British Earl has taught in his books "immoral and salacious" doctrines whose practice would violate the penal laws of the State of New York.

Nor do they seem greatly worried by the sound advice of men like the Rev. Robert H. Hurley, who addressed the Cambridge police Communion breakfast Sunday and said:

"We have a professor coming to Cambridge who urges licentious freedom of thought and action. We don't want to follow that man and men of his type who would lead us away from the laws of God and Ten Commandments. We must look to a Strong Captain at our helm in the person of Jesus Christ."

The Harvard contention appears to be that the University has a right to determine the qualifications of its teachers and make appointments without outside interference, either from local or State authorities.

That may be true. But, just the same, it is well to remember that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is a DEMOCRACY, of which Harvard, despite its size and eminence, is only a SMALL PART.

If Harvard does enjoy the right to make its own appointments, it is because the people, theoretically or actually, have granted that right.

Roses

GENTLY handled must roses be . . . Not flowers are they, but verily . . . the pink boudoirs of Fairyland . . . and by a Queen's royal command . . . as a boudoir is set apart . . . each sweet and dew-pearled little heart.

You'll see, if in their hearts you peep . . . a fairy princess sound asleep . . . who in a bed of roses lies . . . while silken lashes veil her eyes.

So wake her not, because it seems . . . Prince Charming haunts her golden dreams.

Paul T. Gilbert.

On the Side

PUBLIC OFFICIALS aspiring for office of President should be compelled by law to limit their campaigns to six weeks before election. This would give these ambitious public employees more time to devote to the work they are being paid to do by the taxpayers . . . "Am not a newspaper critic," writes a reader, "but I own a couple of picture theaters and my patrons say Hedy La Marr will not succeed because she has no sex appeal" . . . An eminent medico says the belief that a mixture of lobster and ice cream at same meal will make a person ill is a fallacy. It is no fallacy in my case, Doc, old boy. Isn't it a fact that people vary so much in what does or does not disagree with them that such general statements as the aforementioned are presumptions.

"I AM GOING to send you a book on dog training," said a guest to my girl friend after an afternoon call of several charming ladies. It seems while the ladies were in the midst of an interesting over-the-teacups discussion our pup rushed into the room dragging one of the guest towels from the bathroom. "I just have a sneaking idea," said my girl friend to me. "You gave that dog that towel and then gave him a push toward the living room." Naturally I did not dignify this unjust accusation with a reply.

MARGARET SULLIVAN, the actress, becomes really annoyed when her name is spelled Sullivan instead of Sullivan. Once I spelled a man's name Hewlings Mumper. He wrote saying his name was Hewling Mumpers and attached following to the letter:

Oh, call me up for ridicule,
And fill my soul with shame,
Reproach, abuse and obloquy
But don't misspell my name.

MADAME ANTEOR PATINO, unanimously chosen as best dressed woman in Paris, smokes only six cigarettes a day. I know a woman, the mother of eight children, who smokes 65 cigarettes a day. As for best dressed woman, etc., the world's best dressmaker, I am told, is a fellow from Chicago, who was in Paris, but is now in New York. I am also told one of the six best dressmakers in the world is a fellow from Waco, Tex. Maybe the lady said Dallas. Anyway he is from Texas formerly only famous for cattle, oil wells, triple threat quarterbacks and Stanley Walker.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, May 1— I have just met with as heart-rending a group of people as it has been my misfortune to see in a long time, very largely a colored group, though some white women were among them. They came to tell me of their hopeless situation and I can best describe it by telling you one woman's story.

She was laid off WPA last August and has a bedridden mother, a sister and a nephew living with her. She lived until January 4th by begging and borrowing and then was put back on WPA.

The tears stood in her eyes when she told me she was laid off again and had an eviction notice and was to appear in court tomorrow morning. Two months' rent is due and, even by attempting to rent out some rooms, she cannot meet the payments.

IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA there is an understanding in the public assistance bureau that no employable person may be given relief, for they have only $900,000 to take care of their 2000 unemployable people and rents in the District are high. The cut has come on WPA and people have to be laid off, and what is going to happen to them? How would you meet this situation?

MADAME CHANG KAI-SHEK
Her Idea Is Carried On

Monday morning I came in very early by train from my day in North Carolina and a good part of it was devoted to a meeting between members of youth serving agencies and youth aid agencies. We have met several times before, but on this occasion we decided to put in a long day to discuss the problems which seem most important to the retire group—jobs and unemployment.

The meeting was of value because it brought out many facts. One gentleman asserted he had heard such divergent facts, he found it difficult to decide where the truth lay. This is in itself a gain, for at least we know that when we have accepted certain things as truth and been rather comfortable in accepting them, we may have been wrong.

It will lead us to explore the disagreeable statement, which may turn out to be the truth.

DURING A RECESS, Miss Ida Pruitt brought me a soft and beautiful Chinese silk scarf, made by a group of women in a co-operative started by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. Later in the afternoon, a young Chinese woman who is studying design in this country, brought me a lovely Chinese gown made by her own hands. Finally, Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Jelliffe came to tell me about a most interesting development which they have fostered.

Yesterday I began with a meeting of the Artburdale, W. Va., advisory committee. Then I opened my series of broadcasts and went to my annual lunch with the Girl Scouts in their practice house.

LaGUARDIA ACTS TO END STRIKE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 1—An important manufacturing company in America is being threatened with indictment under the Espionage Act—for having delivered to German manufacturers secret information concerning the work it has been doing for the U. S. Army . . . William Greer: The strike at the Brass Rail—the longest strike in the history of Broadway—is in the process of settlement. Mayor LaGuardia is intervening to effect an agreement . . . Jeremiah T. Mahoney: There'll be more judicial work for you in the Police Department trials. A new batch—one Inspector, a few Captains and more than 20 Lieutenants—will be up before the Police Commissioner, concerning evidence unearthed by the Amen investigation.

JIM FARLEY: Emil Hurja, who was your statistician in the '36 campaign, and who now is working for Ben Smith, went to Washington where he saw Leon Henderson, the SEC Commissioner. "I heard two stories about you in Milwaukee," said Hurja. "I heard that you're a Presidential possibility for 1944—and that you're against Big Business." "Don't worry," Henderson assured him, "because one of 'em isn't true" . . . John D. M. Hamilton: Sam Boston now is receiving offers to bet even money that you'll win the nomination . . . Ann Corio: Harvey D. Gibson conferred with Minsky, who proposed to install a Girlsque show in one of the abandoned buildings at the Fair Grounds. Gibson was amenable to the deal—but someone at City Hall killed it by refusing to permit the use of the Minsky name in advertising the show . . . John Golden: Your star, Gertrude Lawrence, is making 30-minute recordings, sent via Clipper to the BBC, for short wave broadcasts to the men in the trenches. Lily Pons and Gladys Swarthout also are making these recordings.

GLADYS SWARTHOUT

HOWARD HUGHES: Max Constant, who flew from California to New York last week, used Jacqueline Cochran's new $175,000 plane. Constant could have made the flight non-stop, but preferred to make three stops so that he thereby would not interfere with Miss Cochran's plan to crack the non-stop trans-Continental record with this same plane . . . Billie Burke: George Jessel attended the Ziegfeld Club dinner Saturday night and heard the tender speeches about your late husband. "I knew Ziggy very well, too," George orated later. "So well, that I sat with him and I, Miller, the shoe man, after the opening of the Follies of 1922—and there saw Ziggy pay the shoe bill for the Follies of 1907."

By JOSEPH CARTER

(Subbing for George Holland, who is on vacation)

FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS is involved in this, and the residents of 14 cities and towns will be interested . . . At the social law library yesterday, lingering beside an index cabinet, held by the words of a pleasant, calm and authoritative voice, it was heard . . . How Governor Saltonstall, Lieutenant-Governor Cahill and the eight executive councilors will be told that the dozen million dollars can be cut from the Boston Elevated deficit . . . If the three gentlemen doing the talking go through with the plans they were making.

THIS YEAR'S CONCERTS by Walter Gieseking, internationally famous German pianist, in Boston's Symphony Hall, have been cancelled . . . Widely known as a brilliant technician, Gieseking was in Boston last year, his friends here will be interested to learn . . . His whereabouts now are not known exactly except he is in Germany.

A MAJOR DEVELOPMENT in political circles in Massachusetts will occur Monday or Tuesday next week when the name of the man who will run Edmund R. Dewing's campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney-general is announced . . . He is a man so influential in GOP circles in this state that the reverberations will cause a complete readjustment of the present political situation . . . Dewing, of course, is now district attorney of Norfolk County.

WHAT GOES ON HERE—in the city of Boston law department? First, it was announced friends and employees had arranged a testimonial dinner for Henry Parkman, Jr., former corporation counsel, who resigned to run for U. S. Senate against Senator David I. Walsh . . . It was to have been held at the Parker House May 2, Thursday night . . . Then it was announced it had been postponed, because, in view of Parkman's candidacy, so many people were embarrassed, it was felt it would be better to put it off a while . . . THEN it was revealed it had not been postponed, the publicity had simply been withdrawn so the dinner could be run "quietly" . . . and to top it all off, officials of the Parker House said they knew nothing of it—arrangements having been made in the name of James Dorsey of the legal department . . . The dinner is on.

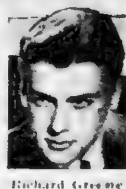

WITH CAMBRIDGE'S BUDGET threatening as much as a possible $7 tax increase, and the proponents of Plan E putting on the pressure—certain Cambridge city workers have offered to take a voluntary five per cent reduction in their salaries . . . And Charles Campbell of Beverly recently retired as chairman of the State Board of Embalmers after what he calls lack of co-operation from the State House . . . Campbell says with all the crying about tax increases, positions as paid inspectors were recently created for the board, despite the fact that he explained the board had the power to inspect and there wasn't enough work to keep the three men there busy . . . So he quit.

ILLNESS ALARMS FOX STUDIO

By Louella O. Parsons

Richard Greene

HOLLYWOOD, May 1—Richard Greene had 20th Century-Fox plenty worried about his son's fate today. He is a very sick boy with a high temperature and a bad case of flu. Important for him to be well, too, for he is due to go East for the Kate Smith broadcast Friday night and up to a late hour he was doubtful if his M. D. would grant him permission to make the trip. Another reason for the Greene lad to get well quickly is "I Married a Nazi," his next picture which starts May 6.

You can see 20th Century-Fox sets store by their Nazi movie, based on a series of highly sensational articles in a recent magazine, for they have engaged Joan Bennett to play the femme lead. Joan is still blonde and an attractive duck as she was fair, although it took me a long time to get used to her new hair color. She starts tests immediately under the direction of Irving Pichel and Raymond Griffith, director and producer respectively.

LISE RAINER

BRITAIN the next; Bea Lillie has booked reservations on the Clipper and will arrive later this month; Addison Randall and Louise Stanley have definitely said adieu to marriage; Lise Rainer in town luncheon with a strange gentleman; Cecil De Mille has completely lost his voice and cannot utter a sound; Mervyn Douglas is flying to New York to be the principal speaker at a dinner honoring Eleanor Roosevelt.

THE HIGHLY DRAMATIC "Rain," censorable, it's true, but excellent entertainment, is being considered by three studios. Mary Pickford owns the rights and she is now dickering with RKO—who would like to have it for Ginger Rogers. MGM who can see Ann Sothern as Sadie Thompson and Warners believe that Somerset Maugham's plays are particularly good for Bette Davis. Jeanne Eagels scored a never-to-be-forgotten success in the play. Gloria Swanson made it on the screen some years ago and still later it was remade with Joan Crawford, who considers it the all-time low in her movie career. It was so bad that MGM never loaned Joan out again to any studio.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THELMA took off her wedding ring and snatched it into her purse as she sat watching the scenery rush by the windows.

"He'll meet me at Baltimore, will he? Well he won't. I shall go right on to Washington. I'm through with you, Michael Sterns and FOR GOOD!"

Two women across the aisle were speaking so Thelma could hear what they said. The younger and pretty one was visibly excited. "Why did I divorce Michael Sterns?" she said. "Just because I could not stand him and his ways one more day—that's why!"

"GOOD grief!" thought Thelma. "That's Michael's divorced wife. So I'm not the only woman who can't stand his ways." But the woman was still speaking and Thelma leaned a bit toward the aisle.

"No, I suppose that was not the whole reason," she continued. "That old Aunt Elsie of his was just too much for my young life, and Michael was simply possessed by her."

"But I hear she died last week," volunteered, her companion.

Thelma started. "Aunt Elsie dead? Then Michael would be grief-stricken. I don't care if he is. I'm through with him forever. I just won't put up with him any longer and I don't care what he does or how he feels." Then she caught a sudden exclamation from the divorced wife across the way.

"What?—What did you say, for goodness sake?"

"I said I met the lawyer this morning in the station and he told me she had left a half million dollars to Michael."

"A half a million? And I might have had all that! Well, there's fate for you. But we are almost in at Baltimore, so Washington is getting nearer at last."

THELMA was dazed, but only for a minute. She hastily retrieved her wedding ring, slipped it on, went to the dressing room, fixed her curly bob and powdered her nose, making herself as attractive as possible.

As the train stopped in the Baltimore station, Thelma jumped from the steps into the arms of a tall man, crying:

"Oh Michael darling! I was so afraid you would not be here, and I have missed you every moment since we parted. I love you, I love you, darling, and I'll never leave you again!"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

ALL DAY a phrase has been blowing like a bugle in my heart, lifting me above the drag of my own grief and fear.

It is a phrase from a far country, from a country which knew the ways of the human spirit before ever Anglo or Saxon made their first fumbling gesture toward civilization. China! China fighting now for her life against an invading hordes! Edgar Snow writes of that fight, titles it, "The Dragon Licks His Wounds." A rarely great article. And the greatest sentence in that article is this:

"The basic strength of China lies in the ability of the Chinese woman to 'eat bitterness' and still carry on smiling."

TO SWALLOW the shocks of life . . . the losses and the loneliness. To be willing to walk those "Stations of the Cross" which everyone who dares the supreme adventure of Love must face . . . diving a little at each terrible test, that someone else may live, or a great cause be served.

That is not only the basic strength of modern China . . . that has been the basic strength of the race since humanity began. To men, the adventure. To women, the sacrifice and tears.

For every woman who dares to live to the limit of her womanhood must "eat bitterness" from maidenhood to death. Each child she bears, she must eventually release—and lose—to the ruthless tide of life.

The man she loves, must move with that same tide forgetting her often. She must give life—yet be denied life in her own existence.

She must learn to their last smiling agony and beauty, the meaning of these awful words—

"He who would save his life must lose it . . . but he who will lose his life for My sake shall save it."

THE WOMEN of China are smiling today. Their sons are dead. And yet they smile because, into their frail, pale bodies, the flags of a great crusade have been handed down. And in their gentle, courageous souls there flames a vision which has transformed their flower-like beauty to Amazon fighting strength.

Such a transformation is not rare in the history of this world. It happens endlessly. It is one of God's radiant moments.

Any fool can caper and wassail. Any coward can duck and hide. But only the truly great . . . the truly brave . . . can "eat bitterness" and laugh in the face of heartbreak and death—for the sake of something greater than personal happiness.

You Can Be Beautiful

Salt Water Can't Mar It

By ARLINE GOULD

NOT THAT you are going to imperil that flowery spring bonnet by running around in the rain to prove the point we make today on an unusual make-up foundation... but there are some really significant beauty reasons why you should be vitally interested in this complexion beautifier, a silken liquid-cream, which is as impervious to moisture as a dove's wing...

It keeps that satiny, smooth glow for hours and hours, because it protects your make-up from skin surface moisture, which ordinarily would make it shiny. And, naturally, impervious to drizzle or rain.

It's an inside-and-outside protective, so effective that you will also want it when the beach season gets going... what a wonderful feeling, to be sure your complexion will be as dazzling when you run out of the surf... as when you leaped in!

You can get a generous enough tubs of it for 50c, and it comes in divine colors, from a fresh, blossomy pink to a bronze-rose glow that makes you look as though you hopped clippers for Bermuda and Nassau the way you hop the morning bus.

You'll be rather amazed at the way it goes on... with a clear transparency that is anything but made-up looking. It has that invaluable faculty of appearing softly transparent though actually it isn't, and completely hides all blemishes and fine lines.

You couldn't ask for a more ethereal-looking second-complexion! There is no necessity for using powder, if you don't wish to, though in the evening it is a good idea for it gives your skin that pampered, creamy texture of camellia petals.

If you'd like to learn all about this satiny, blemish-concealing make-up that's impervious to water or shine for as long as care to have "t. so, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days until five-thirty, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love and Marriage

Secretly Sees Boy in Jail

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My daughter, who is 18 and in the last year of high school, went "steady" with a boy who had been in reform school and had literally no ambition. She loved him, but a jail sentence has prevented her from seeing him often. Meantime, she became interested in another boy, but secretly visits this boy who is in jail and objects to my telling her what will inevitably happen if she marries him.

WORRIED MOTHER.

You have every reason to be a worried mother, dear lady, because a girl in the position of your daughter is not really in love with an undesirable man who has been in the reform school and latterly in jail. She is in love with love and sees every man a Prince Charming, no matter how unworthy he may be. The world is full of tragedies which girls of this type make for themselves.

She sees herself as a ministering angel, no doubt, in visiting this young man who is incarcerated. You can only hope and pray that some flash of good, hard common sense will come to her rescue. Meantime, don't scold or nag, have patience with her, and more patience. Let her see you are her friend.

Smart Set Fashions

The Trend Is Tropical

By ANNICE BRINK

BLAME IT on Lamour and her sarong, or the flowered Mother Hubbards the missionaries threw over the naive Polyne-sians, and which are the supreme fashion inspiration for the smart crowd which lives in or visits Hawaii... whatever it is... and it should really be praised instead of blamed... the new dinner dresses look like tropical blossoms.

It's going to be one of the most infectionously gay roof garden and summer dance seasons we've ever known... there are so many and varied fashion ideas thronging in town, it can't help but be!

A coral-colored jersey top, with such drape, sets off the best looking tropical-blossom number around. Its skirt is extremely full, with the lush blossoms on a white crepe ground. The pattern gives the effect of luxuriance which is typically tropical... but it is so well covered that you don't have to be of mannequin height to look stunning in it.

Striped silk jersey, lined on white, with a hood, and figure-flattering tricks played with the stripes is an extreme opposite to the flowery style, and even more sophisticated in its way.

Large blue and yellow roses on a silk crepe ground, a pattern straight from an English wallpaper, is a design credited to Moly-neux. You'll want something as striking as this to stand out among the other prints.

Amazing... is a dark blue dance frock with an effect of lace, printed on it in white. It has a draped bra, a long, moulded bodice, and tiers in the Spanish-dancer style, held out by cording at intervals. It's a surprise to see on closer inspection that it's none other than hardy seersucker. And it's another surprise to look at the price tag, for such an elegant looking number!

USE CHENEY'S EYE BATH TO RELIEVE TIRED EYES BLOODSHOT EYES DULL EYES EYE STRAIN

Wash Daily With Cheney's Eye Bath

A famous poet said: "The eyes are the windows of the soul."

A nationally famous physician said: "We are too careless about the health of our eyes. No other organ of the body is more abused or more neglected."

We say: "Make it a daily habit to flush eyes thoroughly morning and night."

You wash your hands many times a day... you bathe regularly... you clean your teeth every day... the ladies use powder and rouge. BUT few of us pay attention to our eyes.

BETTER THAN DROPS

To really clean, use Cheney's Eye Bath and you will be amazed at the wonderful refreshed feeling. It is an antiseptic, healing and soothing eyewash. It takes out redness, irritation, and inflammation, and helps relieve tired and sore eyes.

AT NIGHT

Flushing the eyes at night before retiring washes out the dangerous dust, dirt and germs from city streets. It leaves eyes with a cool, refreshed feeling that brings about immediate relaxation and almost instant sleep.

A SCIENTIFIC FORMULA Eyes are so delicate. You must be careful that you bathe them only with a safe preparation. Cheney's Eye Bath is especially prepared for this one purpose. It is safe for delicate tissues.

How to Feed Growing-Age Children

By MARTHA LEE

TODAY is Child Health day throughout the nation. But in homes where there are young children the family takes part in a Child Health program every time it sits down to a meal. By the time a child eats at the family table, or at a little table of his own, he's growing up. He's growing in size, it's true—but he's ready to eat grown up food if it's wholesome and nutritious.

Children growing fast and playing hard, need food that will produce strong bones and teeth, build tissue, make red blood, and furnish energy. But children's "tummies" are small and quickly filled—every bite they eat must be a full of food value as possible.

source of the materials needed for growth. From three to four glasses during the day are needed. Most children like to drink milk—but it is often best to give the milk at the end of the meal, so it will not crowd out other foods that are also important. Some milk can also be included in cooked foods—cereals cooked in milk, vegetables combined with milk in a cream soup, and milk in custards and sherbets.

Eggs are also excellent body builders—rich in protein, vitamins, and minerals. Give the child at least four or five eggs a week. Serve them soft-cooked, poached, shirred, or baked. Or use the eggs in omelets, in soufflés, with vegetables or cheese.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

"At least four servings of fruit and vegetables a day," is a good rule to follow for the entire family. It's easy to include them if you serve a fruit for breakfast, a vegetable at noon and again at night, and a fruit dessert at one meal. It's a good plan to add more vegetables to both the noon and evening meal.

Choose one of these fruits or vegetables to supply vitamin C. Citrus fruits and tomatoes are rich in this vitamin; so are greens and the vegetables of the cabbage and turnip families.

When planning the day's meals, also remember that the green vegetables are valuable for vitamin A and iron, as well as for vitamin C. Potatoes and sweet potatoes give good returns in food value for their cost.

Prunes and other dried fruits, dried peas and beans, as well as canned fruits and vegetables are useful in rounding out the list. Children enjoy chewing carrot strips and crisp green cabbage or lettuce leaves, rabbit fashion. A sandwich filling of butter creamed with chopped lettuce, cabbage, watercress, or parsley is a way to tick in some extra vitamins and minerals.

DON'T FORGET CEREALS

Cereals are another "must" in the well-laid diet. Whole grain cereals, including whole-grain flour for bread, are especially important for the vitamins and minerals. But don't forget to count rice, grits, macaroni, spaghetti and noodles as cereals.

MEATS FOR CHILDREN

Lean meats are quite suitable for children once a day; and sometimes during the week, the child's meat dish should be liver or kidney or sweetbreads. Coarse stringy meat is hard for a child to chew, so it is best to grind it or chop it fine.

Broiling is a good method to use for tender chops, steaks, and liver, and for ground meat patties. Roast the tender cuts of meat, and braise the less tender ones. Braising means browning the meat in a little fat and then cooking it slowly until tender in a covered pan with a little moisture added.

DESSERTS

A piece of candy or other sweet is certain to delight a child. And if desserts do not take the place of more important foods, they may be served as a special treat at the end of the meal.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 1—Jon Hall has won as many as total equivalents of a star on the screen it's going to be hard to picture him in luckin and moccasins as "Kit Carson."

MARLENE DIETRICH
She Has Two Beaus Now

I've always thought that his first success "Humane" typed Jon too much because he went a long time between pictures waiting for another South Sea idyll. But Edward Small saw Frances Langford's key friend on the lot and it gave him the idea for the test, Haste—Jon gets the part originally scheduled for Randy Scott on account of Randy has commitments elsewhere. While Small was in the borrowing mood getting Jon from Sam Goldwyn he also got Lynn Bari from 20th Century-Fox for the femme lead in the Carson epic. I am glad Lynn is getting a break.

HOLLYWOOD NOTES—Cutest pair in town is Jane Withers and Joe Brown. Jr. who stopped the 20th Century-Fox studio party at Lari Carols when they had a jolly-bug bummer—the Vic Costello and Helen Gilbert romance waxes hotter and hotter. Marlene Dietrich bearded the Victor Hugo by both Fred Perry and Tim Durant. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

24 Scarlett Kelly Returns to Globe Stage Here Friday

3 Ryans Head Comedy Division

Scarlett Kelly, whose engagement here some months ago was little less than sensational, is due for a return engagement at the Globe on Friday.

She and Grayce Ryan, who have just concluded a six months' run at Kaniatani's popular Jimmy Keller's, head a traveling burlesque company of 70, included in this large and talented group are Bonnie Sherman, Stella Miller, Johnson and, of course, the 3 dancing Bonadolis.

Globe favorites, the Three Ryans and Floyd Halliey, are the regulars in the comedy division which features Monk Kirkland, Harry Ryan and Billy Fields.

Taudelle is represented by the E. Mc of Melody with "Jill Spar," and over a second weekly feature named: The Dancing Dream and the Ball-Ho-Ho.

The scenic program, providing entertainment include between this complete burlesque shows, we include two screen attractions, latest newsreels and comedy shorts. The burlesque shows are given daily at 12 m., 8 and 10 p. m. Monday's final performance of the recent revue featuring Marion Miller and Joan Collins and having an added attraction of a radio amateurs' auditions, which event at the Globe Theater.

Walter O'Keefe On RKO Stage

Walter O'Keefe, radio comedian and musical comedy star, head lines the new stage show opening on Friday at the RKO Boston Theater.

On the screen the attractions will offer Jack Holt in "Outside the 3-Mile Limit" with Harry Carey, Eduardo Cinnelli and Irene Ware and the first Boston showing of Renfrew of the Royal Mounted in "Sky Bandits."

O'Keefe has streaked across the theatrical horizon with great success and popularity since first making his debut some years ago with the late Texas Guinan. He then appeared in Barney Gallant's in Greenwich Village, later going to Hollywood to write songs for the movies.

In Hollywood he appeared for the first time on the radio with the Rhythm Boys, one of whom was Bing Crosby.

He appeared with Beatrice Lillie in "The Third Little Show" and introduced the song which has always been associated with him, "When Yuba Plays the Tuba Down in Cuba."

Appearing as guest star on Rudy Vallee's Hour, he scored such a triumph that he was asked to appear five more times. Since then he has been the star of seven nationwide radio programs. He will present new songs and a hilarious comedy routine for his engagement at the RKO Boston.

Projectionists Have Birthday

When the Motion Picture Projectionists of Boston meet tonight at the Copley-Plaza Hotel to observe the organization's 39th anniversary, they will be welcomed by a beam of light, generated from America's largest projection searchlight. It will illumine the entire Copley section.

The monster searchlight, the largest and newest in the government service, produces eight hundred million candlepower. It will be operated in front of the Copley-Plaza by a special crew of 10 men from the National Guard, battery A, under the direction of Capt. George W. Marquis.

The tremendous size of the searchlight made it impossible to show it with the "Parade of Progress" exhibit in the hotel ballroom, as originally planned. The exhibit consists of motion picture projection equipment from the inception of the movies right up through the present day.

He Couldn't Resist

"A FINE old actor in his day," said the stage director briskly, "but he never could play this part now. He loses his lines."

"He loses what?" Donna Ladd looked up inquiringly.

She was attending her first casting conference, a thrilling event for a young playwright whose first play had won a College Contest, and was now headed for production on Broadway.

Already Donna had received a check for advance royalty, had seen her picture in the papers, and heard herself pronounced in a radio interview, "The Happiest Girl in the World." Out of college less than a year, here she was in New York, her first play accepted—meeting famous people of the theater, and sought out by actors twice her age, who wanted parts in her play.

Yet at the moment the twenty-two-year-old author looked anything but happy. She sat in the producer's office, facing him and the successful young director who had been engaged to stage her play.

When the producer had first invited her to come to New York for this casting conference, she had replied that she had no ideas or suggestions, for she had never seen any Broadway actors with one exception—the veteran Jefferson Ward. She had written the grandfather's role around Mr. Ward's personality. She would like to have him engaged, but would rely on the producer and director to select the balance of the cast.

Donna had first seen Jefferson Ward when she was a freshman at college, and he had acted in a nearby WPA company. Once when he took the part of a grandfather his performance was so appealing that Donna wrote him her first fan letter. Soon after she had received a gracious note of thanks, written in a fine Victorian hand, and inviting her to come back to his dressing room after the next play.

"I'LL PLAY IN IT"

What a thrill it had been for the young drama student, to meet this veteran of fifty years' service in the theater! She revelled in his collection of portraits from London performances with Sir Henry Irving, and feasted on press clippings from his first American tour with Joseph Jefferson. As they talked of the theater the girl forgot her shyness and confided her ambition to write a play. "Why not?" Jefferson Ward had encouraged. "The theater needs plays today more than ever."

"If I write it," she had ventured, "will you read it?"

"Not only that," she had offered.

Remember Moses

"I'll play in it if there should be a part that fits me."

"There will be," she had declared.

"It's a promise."

All during her college years Donna had written on the manuscript of "A Young Girl's Fancy." Patiently Jefferson Ward had read and revised every one of fifty different versions, always making helpful suggestions and giving a word of encouragement. It was he who had urged her to submit it to the College Play Contest.

When it won first prize, naturally her first thought was of him. His WPA troupe had long since been disbanded, and he had returned to New York. Although in the past he had played prominent roles for the best managers, yet for these four years he had remained without an engagement.

It was not trained in an era of racing through a playwright's lines," he had explained after a recent experience. "These modern directors, with their mania for speed, make me intensely nervous when I am striving to remember my lines."

Donna had worried about his morale under all these disappointments. Often, too, she wondered how he managed to exist. Well, she had consoled herself, in our play he will be the type . . . And now this stage director was shaking his head and saying that Jefferson Ward couldn't possibly play the part because he lost—what was it he lost? These Broadway expressions were so baffling!

"His lines," the producer explained. "He can't seem to remember them any more. Happens all the time to old actors."

"I had to let him out of a show this spring," the director put in, in a matter-of-factly. "He spoke his lines so slowly, trying to remember them, the whole play dragged."

"But this play," Donna pointed out, "he practically knows by heart. Some of Grandfather's lines are his very own."

"Now let's see," the director consulted a typewritten list. "Here are half a dozen good possibilities."

"Why does Mr. Ward lose his lines?" Donna persisted. "His mind is clear and keen. He's not so terribly old."

"THAT'S CRUEL!"

"Old Jeff must be hearing 75," said the producer. "Hiss a lot of them earlier."

"That blessed old darling has lived with this play," declared Donna, "ever since I first had the idea. He's been the whole inspiration of it!"

"Sometimes these old fellows can manage to get through rehearsals," the director added reluctantly, "then on opening night they blow up—and with the whole cast pittery anyway, it means good-bye play!"

"I'll work with him day and night," the girl pleaded. "I'll cut down his part, do anything—but please give him this one chance!"

"The place for old guys like that, when they're through," the director observed coldly, "is the Actors' Home."

Donna's brown eyes flashed. "That's cruel and harsh," she cried. "I'd rather the play never went on."

Who hath made man's mouth? Have not I the Lord? Now there fore go and I will be thy mouth."

"What a beautiful thought!" cried Donna.

"It's a message," he declared. "You remember some time ago I wrote you about the difficulty I had with that young director. Because he said I was like our friend of certain calls, with the loudest and longest ovation to the play's Grandfather. Then there were cries of "Author! Author!" It was the proud old actor who led Donna, trembling but radiant, before the footlights. Cheers greeted her and calls for "Speech!"

Happily she looked up at Jefferson Ward, remembering Moses, he counseled. And suddenly she was aware of her own voice saying quite clearly, "Thank you, and all those who made this evening possible." Then with a low curtsy to

It was the proud old actor who led Donna, trembling but radiant, before the footlights.

If Jefferson Ward can't be in it!" She got up and walked to the window. Their subtle director, she determined was not going to have the chance to laugh at her tears.

The producer laid a gentle hand on her shoulder. "He was in his sixty-sixth year," he offered. "If he really can get through rehearsals, we'll take a chance on Jefferson Ward for the opening."

Donna nodded gratefully. "I'm going to tell him now," she said.

She found the old actor in a tiny sunlit room in an uptown apartment. In the four years since she had seen him he had aged noticeably. But though his footsteps faltered, and he looked painfully thin, yet his blue eyes were bright, and his voice had its usual resonance.

"Can you start rehearsals Monday?" Donna began gently. "You're the first actor to be engaged for our cast."

"Do they really want me?" he asked, his voice trembling.

He led her to his rocking chair by the window. On his little reading table were a copy of her manuscript and a well-worn Bible. He set on a trunk which bore labels of tours with "Rip Van Winkle," "The Girl of the Golden West" and "The Concert."

"IT'S A MESSAGE"

"I want to read you something," he told her; and taking up his Bible to read in his rich voice the lines of Moses: "O my Lord, I am slow of speech and of a slow tongue. The Lord said unto him:

Moses slow of speech? When I knew he was going to direct our play, I feared I would never see the part!

You know I wanted you! said Donna.

Yes, my dear—but suppose you persuaded them and I spoiled the play! I was worried until I came upon the heavenly message from Moses. Then I knew what was in my mouth!" He rose up straight and strong like a jaybird. "Thank God!" he breathed.

A fashionable first night audience stayed to applaud "A Young Girl's Fancy" and to give the cast a rousing ovation.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY

Angel vs. Crusher: Why Not Now?

NOT THAT I WISH TO HASTEN the fine, Machiavellian hand of Paul Bowser, the local mat manipulator. But the Truth is the Truth and sooner or later the Angel, that modern Dawn Man who is expected to make human hamburger of Jim Casey tonight at the Arena, will be drumming his chest and hurling jungle words at Steve-the-Crusher, the ex-fisherboy from County Kerry.

AUSTEN LAKE

The thing is inevitable, though perhaps planned for the outdoor season when a rich crush of customers can spread themselves in Fenway Park and see the boys scatter their fuzz and lint in the moonlight. So it may not be till Nature spreads its summer greens and it is tulip time in the Public Garden that the creamy blood of the Angel and the Crusher will be permitted to boil and the first rumbles of rivalry begin in the region of their larynxes. Such things take a little rubbing up of the ribs to get the proper pitch of fury.

There are many who are saying now, though unofficially of course, that if the misshapen, pituitary man meets Steve, who is gnarled and angular as an oak, he will bust him cross't his knee like snapping a dry stick. Though, truth to speak, 'tis mostly the Corkmen who discharge bowed Shave thus, and 'twixt Kerry and Cork there is the same sort of rivalry that exists between native Californians and Floridians—they fight that fine together!

STILL SOMETHING IMMEDIATE AND PRETTY strong is necessary to rouse the flagging mat industry which has gone groggy over since the night that Dick Shikat committed his famous larceny on Danno O'Mahony and set the feudal barons of the business, who never trusted each other much beyond the tail of their eyes, to clawing and garroting each other. Where a few years back Paul Bowser brought the championship wrestling on a rental basis, there are six or more major chains operating around the country, each with its pasteboard champion and retinue of wrestlers. So the scarcity of headline names threatened to choke the business—until the Angel flew into Bowser's office.

Ed Don George, Henri DeGlane, Nick Luis and all that fascinating fellowship of the old days, are away to the foreign wars. Others whom Bowser raised to stardom and riches have deserted to rival concerns so that Paul has sometimes been obliged to hunt under rocks, stumps and haymows for a new crop of emufoes to feed his weekly shows.

It is some time now since Danno O'Mahony was tipping over the pick of the hairy profession, whooshing and wallowing four nights a week and often having to pack his ring tights damp with perspiration to keep some date in a distant nook of the country by airplane. It is some time since the cash registers of the wrestling firms rang with a steady tinkle of hard money. But when the Angel descended a modest revival of the old boom times began again and the customers have been coming back, though not, to be sure, in such hordes and flocks as they did during Danno's illusion or when Sonnenberg was fresh.

TODAY THE PIECES OF DANNO'S HEIRLOOM are pretty well scattered among the various wrestling lodges with nobody owning more than a splinter or a rag and the old growlers, like Sonnenberg, London, Lewis, O'Mahony, the Ducks, George and others, have gotten creaky in the joints, are retired or forced to play the leaky roof circuits. The big name has disappeared.

So, while waiting for another miracle, the promoters began to employ wrestlers who previously, they were heard to say, couldn't wrestle a lick and didn't deserve so much as a quarter hour's work in the first preliminary of a suburban amory program. Something strong was indicated to relieve the horsemanship of novice names and to resurrect the fine old sport to its former plane of glory. And the only something that seems strong enough is an Angel-Steve Casey tussle, with its wild-man aspect and the prospect of the two primitive foaming and slaverling like the Pitdown vs. the Neanderthal men in the primeval darkness of the world.

From a theatrical standpoint the match is a natural, ready for the boards. Both men have their favorite methods of being knoed. Steve with an elaboration of the old schoolboy flying mare which he calls the Killarney Flip and the Angel with a crude, rib-cracking embrace which he calls the Bear Hug.

Unless Uncle Moose comes through with a win the Red Sox will blow the series, for they were turned back, 9 to 4, yesterday by long Johnny Rigney. Manager Jimmy Dykes will nominate Vaille Eaves for mound duty. Eaves, who is a quarter-blood Cherokee Indian, was the strike-out king at Shreveport last season before he was brought up to the Windy City by Jimmy Dykes.

FACE WILDMAN
Although his pitching was impressive during spring training, particularly in the intra-city game, in which he pitched three innings and had the Cubs helpless for three innings, striking out five of Gabby Harnett's hirelings, the chief has been, rider than a March hare in his two previous American League starts. On his first time out, Eaves walked an even dozen batters and unloaded two wild pitches and passed five men in his second game.

Unless the "Chief" suddenly acquires control, the Red Sox are in for a busy afternoon.

SOX BEHIND HIT SCHEDULE

Despite the heavy cannonading they have unleashed at times this season, the Red Sox are not hitting up to their usual standard. Jimmy Fox and Doc Cramer are .405 and .408, respectively, and Ted Williams scrambled back into the .300 class by getting "two for four." However, a couple of blows today will jump Lou Finney into the elite class and a little spurt will send Bobby Doerr over the top.

The Dykesmen gave the Croninmen a good going over yesterday afternoon. In the first place, long Johnny Rigney was at his best and when he's right there are few pitchers in the business who are tougher to beat. He restricted the Red Sox to six hits, four of which were evenly divided between Doc Cramer and Ted Williams, both of whom singled and doubled.

Jimmy Fox connected with his fourth circuit daisy of the season, a three-run wallop into the left fence screen. Manager Joe Cronin made the other hit, which scored Williams with the first Boston run in the fourth round.

Secondly, Emerson Dickman wasn't up to the form he has displayed this spring. Although only nine men faced him in the first three innings, it was very apparent that Dick didn't have his stuff. The White Sox were hitting balls right on the nose but directly at somebody. A fast double play pulled Dickman out of a first-inning.

Women Invited To Grove Fete

Although Lefty Grove Day is more than a month away—June 8—the banquet to the Sox south-paw which will follow the "Day" gives promise of being a complete sellout.

Already more than 300 reservations have been requested, although no public announcement has been made as to the details of the dinner.

Tickets will cost $5.00. All requests should be accompanied by a check or money order payable to John Corcoran, Treasurer, or Lefty Grove Committee, and should be mailed to James A. Slinn, secretary, Lefty Grove Committee, 38 Newbury St., Boston.

Reservations will be made on the "first come, first serve" basis. Women are invited. Whooping the affair are Dr. William R. Ross, chairman, Mayor John Carr, Modford, Tom McEnaney and Andy Darsi, all Sarasota visitors during the Sox stay there.

BROOKLYN DELIRIOUS OVER DODGERS' STREAK ³¹

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1940

BRONX BOMBED—Sliding in back of Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, with the winning run, Walter Judnich sends the St. Louis Browns off to a fine start on their Eastern invasion. After singling, Judnich scored from first on George McQuinn's double as the World Champions slipped into a 2 to 1 defeat.

Thousands Crowd Newspaper Boards; Movies Give Scores

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—Brooklyn Bridge (built 1883) shook today with the dancing in the streets for the Brooklyn Dodgers (built 1940). This is May Day for the rest of the world but for Brooklyn it is the day after the delicious day "them Brooklyn's" shut out Cincinnati without a hit and won nine straight from scratch.

First in the hearts of his countrymen today was James Otto Carleton, citizen of Fort Worth and late of Milwaukee who pitched the historic game.

Second was Lawrence MacPhail, who last year gave Brooklyn night games, the yellow ball, and gold drum major in kilts and who this year gave Brooklyn a ball club.

WORLD SERIES FERVOR

Fervor in Brooklyn started with the first inning yesterday, built up to the ninth inning peak and were still in progress today.

For six innings, more than 2000 Brooklynites watched the baseball scoreboard outside a newspaper office then another thousand and more poured out of Manhattan times, and by the time the game ended you would have thought it was the last game of the World Series and Brooklyn had taken it.

It was that way throughout Brooklyn.

Hot dog stands with a radio and a record drew sidewalk and street crowds up to three or four hundred persons.

Theaters called moving scenes from the stages, and people forgot what the movie was about.

Bars and restaurants were crowded. Traffic around Borough hall one focal point in the borough, jammed gloriously and nobody minded.

Came the end of the game, and the borough brought up a cheer from its heels that would have wrecked any record machine turned only to the roar of a forest full of lions.

THEY EVEN SHOOT THEM

The Giants have a roster who hangs up a sign in his cafe "no games today" when the Giants lose. Brooklyn does it differently. When the Dodgers lose Brooklyn remarks beligerently "that was today—tomorrow will be different"—and believe it.

Last year a mild-mannered Brooklyn postoffice clerk went home and got a gun and shot a man who had made a slurring reference to the Dodgers.

That's how seriously they take their baseball and that's why today they are taking so deliciously the nine-game record yesterday which tied the Giants' 1934 record and was a shut-out on top of that. C'mon you Brooklyn!

RAIN, SNOW, BLOCK B'S 2D GAME IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 1—Boston's battered Bees were handed a day's respite before facing the Cubs again when rain and snow and a blustery wind caused postponement of today's game.

The Bees meet the Cubs tomorrow and probably will send rookie Bill Stincovich to the hill. The Boston club had little luck in yesterday's opener, losing 8 to 7 in the 10th inning of a game they well might have won.

Disaster struck in the 10th when a fellow who was on the Boston payroll for a spell, Al Todd, clipped a home run and thus ruined what appeared to be Boston win No. 2 until the Cubs rallied in the ninth to tie and sail home on Todd's thump in the extra round.

The Bees are definitely jinxed and there's reason for the Cubs optimism.

Yesterday the Bees went 2-0 in

McAuley came up with six winners, Myrna, $4.30, Ariel Trip, $4.10, Berwyn, $4.10, Zoic, $8.00, Miss Mogul, $7.90 and Mobcap, $8.20. Wilson's winners were Myrna, Ariel Trip, Berwyn, Mobcap.

Another of the Green Race Special handicappers picked the daily double. Two out of three of the five-star specials clicked. The "Top Horses For Today," which released Whooper, $26.30 and Billy's Folly, $14.20, Monday, added Scylla, $11.40, to the list.

Bimelech Win Dulls Foes' Hope

It's one of those daffy things without rhyme or reason, like the guy who took off his hat because his feet were hot, but all signs pointed today to the fact that eight other horses actually are going to the post with Bimelech in the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

What they'll be in there pitching for no one among the thousands already in Derby town for the big show seems to know. Of course, that $999 second money ain't hay and in times like these you're not sneezing at $2000 for third or even $1000 for fourth. But there doesn't seem to be any chance for anything with four legs carrying Bimelech once he throws 'em in high.

LOOKS LIKE A CINCH

The way he came home in 1:34 on a slow track in the Derby trial at Churchill Downs, yesterday, with his tongue hanging out as usual, made one thing just about a dead-eyed cinch. The other fellows are going to get a lot of his dust kicked in their faces—provided they can stay within kicking distance.

Col. E. R. Bradley's baby finished up by working a mile and an eighth in 1:32, and afterward Trainer Bill Hirsch was so happy he couldn't talk.

GAVE UP YESTERDAY

Several of the candidates thought they had a outside chance up to yesterday. But after the trial was over five of them saw the light. Of those in the trial only Mrs. Elthei V. Marx' Gallahadion, a $5000 yearling purchase at Saratoga two years ago, which ran a creditable second to Bisminey yesterday, and Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco, which wound up third, will get a ticket to the Derby post.

These and the other die-hard optimists who still think maybe Bimelech'll run the wrong way or something make the picture for the Derby post parade look something like this: Bimelech, Dit, Melchard, Piclor, Gallahadion, Roman, Royal Man, Sirocco, Sky Dog.

INSCOLAD MAY RUN

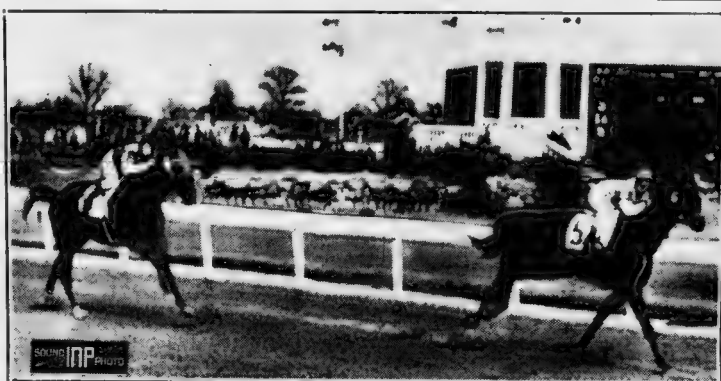

The only possible addition to this field, at this writing, seems to be if Herbert M. Woolf decides to start Inscolad. He's been debating the thing for days, because he'd like his colors represented but an acquaintance of Woolf's informed this corner he has about made up his mind not to take a chance of turning the colt by asking him to go with Bimelech.

The idea of having your colors in the Derby also is prompting Warner, the movie-man to be represented. It's no better than even money that Sky Dog could outrun Errol Lombardi. Sky Dog and another Warner hope, Gallant Dream, ran a mile allowance on the card yesterday and finished fifth and seventh, respectively, so if it's not the one, it'll be the other—or maybe both—on Saturday.

McHale Gets Bout With Former Champ

WORCESTER, May 1.—Irish Johnny McHale faces his toughest local assignment, when he meets former N. E. Welterweight Champion Frankie Britt of Fall River at Mechanics Hall, here Friday night in the feature ten-round event.

It looks as though both boys will be in there gunning for a knockout from the opening bell. Britt determined to win himself another shot at the N. E. title and McHale wanting to remain the flint attraction here.

NO STOPPING THEM—Bimelech, with Jockey Fred Smith up, breezed to a two-length win in the one-mile Derby Trial Stakes at Churchill Downs, Kentucky, for his eighth straight victory, as his final competitive test before the Kentucky Derby next Saturday. Gallahadion finished second. Col. E. R. Bradley's colt is odd-on favorite to capture the Blue Grass Classic.

PLAN LIGHT WORKOUTS FOR DIT

By the Associated Press
The annual Pimlico ladies' race is to be held the morning of Wednesday, May 8, Dixie Handicap day. Arrangements are being made by Sarah Bosley of Monkton, Md., winner of the last ladies' race. Miss Bosley said a field of about eight starters is in prospect.

Arnold Hanger's Dit, the Wood Memorial winner, won't be given a trial at Churchill Downs prior to the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Before leaving for Louisville, Trainer Max Hirsch said only a few light breezes were planned for the colt. "He doesn't need much work," Hirsch explained.

Now What, champion two-year-old filly of 1939, is entered for the $10,000 New Castle Handicap at Delaware Park and the chances are she will start.

The story behind the prediction is that A. G. Vanderbilt, owner of Now What and head of the Pimlico and Belmont tracks, scheduled a new stake for fillies, the Top Flight, for early June without noticing that the date conflicted with that of the New Castle.

When the conflict was discovered, William duPont snuffed his Delaware Park stake to June 22 so that owners could enter their horses in both races without overworking them.

No What made her season's debut in the six-furlong Rennett Handicap at Pimlico, but came in sixth after helping to make the early pace. T. D. Buhl's Donkin won the race, with the Wheatley Stable pair of Ship Biscuit and Merry Knight second and third in a three-way photo finish.

It won't cost much to see the races at North Randall this year if you keep away from the mutuel machines. Grandstand admission has been set at 25 cents, as compared to $1 when the meeting started last summer.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Pittsburgh Pirates broke eight-game losing streak by beating Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1.

THREE YEARS AGO—Pompano, odds-on favorite, finished fifth in Wood Memorial Handicap, won by Wheatley Stable's Melodist, 13 to 1 shot.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Joe McCarthy taken to hospital with flu as Yankees' six-game winning streak was broken by Washington.

Clubhouse admission will cost a half buck more and box seats another quarter. Admission will be by the turnstile route and will include parking privileges. This system will enable the management to do away with cut-rate passes.

The final entry list for the $50,000 Belmont Stakes, No. 3 of the "Triple Crown" Stakes for three-year-olds, shows 48 candidates, including all of the best racers of that age in training. Topping the list is Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, but favorite to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday and then to go on to victory in the Preakness and Belmont.

The New York sales tax hasn't bothered the hallmen at Jamaica. They were unusually active Monday, claiming five horses, even though two per cent of the money of all claims must be turned over to the city. The highest claim to date was 3000 paid by John Simonetti for Norolon.

Times at major tracks indicate that the thoroughbreds are stepping a lot faster now than they were a couple of weeks ago, when bad weather had retarded training considerably.

When Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Search won the Jamaica six-furlong feature yesterday in 1:14.5 it was

Galento-Baer Off to July 2

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—The 15-round heavyweight battle between Tony Galento and Max Baer scheduled for May 22 at Jersey City has been postponed to July 2, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today.

DEAD HEAT—Dinner Jacket and Berwyn race nose and nose to wire in fifth race of Tuesday card at Narragansett. Steel Knight finished third. Dinner Jacket paid $3.20, and Berwyn $4.40. Handle for the day was $298,163.

OLD MAN CARLETON HURLS NO HIT GAME

CINCINNATI, May 1 (INS)—Tex Carleton, only last year a discarded veteran, is now the hero of a sentimental saga called "Pop Makes Good" as he hurled the rampant Brooklyn Dodgers to a no-hit, no-run triumph, 3 to 0, over the Cincinnati Reds, National League champions of 1939.

The feat of the veteran right-hander, who will be 34 in August, was all the sweeter because his hall of fame stunt enabled the Dodgers to equal the modern major league record of nine straight victories to open the season. This mark was set by the New York Giants of 1918.

OSCARART WRECKS TURNER
Pete Oscarart caught hold of one of Jim Turner's shots in the fifth inning with two men on base and two out and tumbled it over the left field fence for a homer and all the Brooklyn tickets. Turner had previously passed Herman Franks and Carleton.

Carleton, starting with the fourth inning, turned back 17 Reds in a row, striking out four of them, through to the last fly from Ival Goodman's bat in the ninth. James Otto Carleton signified his jubilation by hugging Teammate Fee-wee Reese to his chest. It was a clinch between Carleton, the greybeard, and Reese, the rookie.

LAST SINCE FELLERS
The oldtimer, who won 11 and lost 9 for Milwaukee in 1939, thus recorded the first no-hitter of the campaign in the National League and the second of the major league year. Bobby Feller, 21-year-old Cleveland speed-baller, tossed a no-hitter against the Chicago White Sox April 16, the opening day of the season.

It was the initial no-hitter in the senior league since Johnny Vandermeer of the Reds humiliated Brooklyn at Ebbets Field on June 15, 1933. That was the second perfect game in a row for Vandermeer who four days before had goose-egged the Boston Bees on Crosley Field here. Carleton's was the third no-hitter of modern baseball pitched at this park.

TEX GETS REVENGE

To Carleton came revenge at its most glorious for during 1938, his last previous campaign in the majors, the Reds captured each of seven contests Tex toiled for the Chicago Cubs. In contrast to yesterday when he stretched a streak to record length, Tex then tamed the Pittsburgh Pirates after he had opened the year with a winning streak of seven.

The 185-pound product of Comanche, Tex., now living in Fort Worth, Tex., came up into the majors in 1932 when he caught on with the St. Louis Cardinals. From the Cardinals he was shipped to the Cubs where he developed a sore arm which apparently doomed him as a major leaguer, for the Cubs dropped him into the American Association.

Some of his majors' cronies believed that Carleton was lacking in real grit. But Tex took himself to the minors and worked the soreness out of his leg, resolved to be ready if another chance happened along. The chance was given to him by President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers.

Boston After Dark

By

SIX FOR BILL M'AULEY! FOUR FOR DAVE WILSON!

Bill McAuley, Daily Record, and Dave Wilson, Boston American, handed out 10 winners between them at Narragansett Park yesterday afternoon.

Both star handicappers appeared in the Green Race Special Edition of the American which had its second gala day.

McAuley came up with six winners, Myrna, $1.30, Ariel Trip, $1.10, Berwyn, $1.40, Zoic, $8.00, Miss Mogul, $7.90 and Mobcap, $8.20. Wilson's winners were Myrna, Ariel Trip, Berwyn, Mobcap.

Another of the Green Race Special handicappers picked the daily double. Two out of three of the five-star specials clicked. The "Top Horses For Today," which released Whooper, $26.30 and Billy's Folly, $14.20, Monday, added Scylla, $11.40, to the list.

Bimelech Win Dulls Foes' Hope

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1 (AP)—It's one of those daffy things without rhyme or reason, like the guy who took off his hat because his feet were hot, but all signs pointed today to the fact that eight other horses actually are going to the post with Bimelech in the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

What they'll be in there pitching for no one among the thousands already in Derby town for the big show seems to know. Of course that $100,000 second money ain't hay and in times like these you're not sneezing at $2000 for third or even $1000 for fourth. But there doesn't seem to be any chance for anything with four legs catching Bimelech once he throws 'em in high.

LOOKS LIKE A CINCH

The way he came home in 1:38 on a slow track in the Derby trial at Churchill Downs, yesterday, with his tongue hanging out as usual, made one thing just about as dead-eyed a cinch. The other fellows are going to get a lot of his dust kicked in their faces—provided they can stay within kicking distance.

Col. E. R. Bradley's baby finished up by working a mile and an eighth in 1:32, and afterward Trainer Bill Hureley was so happy he couldn't talk.

GAVE UP YESTERDAY

Several of the candidates thought they had an outside chance up to yesterday. But after the trial was over five of them saw the light. Of those in the trial only Mrs. Ethel V. Mers' Gallahadion, a $5000 yearling purchase at Saratoga two years ago, which ran a creditable second to Bimelech yesterday, and Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco, which wound up third, will get a ticket to the Derby post.

These and the other die-hard optimists who still think maybe Bimelech'll run the wrong way or something make the picture for the Derby post parade look something like this: Bimelech, Dit, Moland, Victor, Gallahadion, Roman, Royal Man, Sirocco, Sky Dog.

INSCOLAD MAY RUN

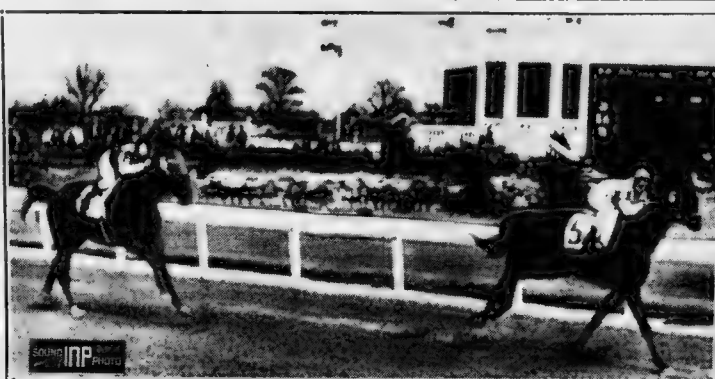

The only possible addition to this field, at this writing, seems to be if Herbert M. Woolf decides to start Inscolad. He's been debating the thing for days, because he'd like his colors represented but an acquaintance of Woolf's informed this corner he has about made up his mind not to take a chance of ruining the colt by asking him to go with Bimelech.

The idea of having your colors in the Derby also is prompting Warner, the movie-man to be represented. It's no better than even money that Sky Dog could outrun Ernie Lombardi. Sky Dog and another Warner hope, Gallant Dream, ran a mile allowance on the card yesterday and finished fifth and seventh, respectively, so if it's not the one, it'll be the other—or maybe both—on Saturday.

McHale Gets Bout With Former Champ

WORCESTER, May 1—Irish Johnny McHale faces his toughest local assignment when he meets former N. E. welterweight champion Frankie Britt of Fall River at Mechanics Hall, here Friday night in the feature ten-round event.

It looks as though both boys will be in there gunning for a knockout from the opening bell. Britt determined to win himself another shot at the N. E. title and McHale wanting to remain the flat attraction here.

NO STOPPING THEM—Bimelech, with Jockey Fred Smith up, breezed to a two-length win in the one-mile Derby Trial Stakes at Churchill Downs, Kentucky, for his eighth straight victory, as his final competitive test before the Kentucky Derby next Saturday. Gallahadion finished second. Col. E. R. Bradley's colt is odd-on favorite to capture the Blue Grass Classic.

PLAN LIGHT WORKOUTS FOR DIT

By the Associated Press

The annual Pimlico ladies' race is to be held the morning of Wednesday, May 8, Dixie Handicap day. Arrangements are being made by Sarah Bosley of Monkton, Md., winner of the last ladies' race. Miss Bosley said a field of about eight starters is in prospect.

Arnold Hangre's Dit, the Wood Memorial winner, won't be given a trial at Churchill Downs prior to the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Before leaving for Louisville, Trainer Max Hirsch said only a few light breezes were planned for the colt. "He doesn't need much work," Hirsch explained.

Now What, champion two-year-old filly of 1939, is entered for the $10,000 New Castle Handicap at Delaware Park and the chances are she will start.

The story behind the prediction is that A. G. Vanderbilt, owner of Now What and head of the Pimlico and Belmont stakes, scheduled a new stake for fillies, the Top Flight, for early June without noticing that the date conflicted with that of the New Castle.

When the conflict was discovered, William duPont snuffed his Delaware Park stake to June 22 so that owners could enter their horses in both races without overworking them.

No What made her season's debut in the six-furlong Rennet Handicap at Pimlico, but came in sixth after helping to make the early pace. T. D. Buhl's Donkin won the race, with the Wheatley Stable pair of Ship Biscuit and Merry Knight second and third in a three-way photo finish.

It won't cost much to see the races at North Randall this year if you keep away from the mutuel machines. Grandstand admission has been set at 25 cents, as compared to $1 when the meeting started last summer.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Pittsburgh Pirates broke eight-game losing streak by beating Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1.

THREE YEARS AGO—Pompton, odds-on favorite, finished fifth in Wood Memorial Handicap, won by Wheatley Stable's Melodist, 13 to 1 shot.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Joe McCarthy taken to hospital with flu as Yankees' six-game winning streak was broken by Washington.

Clubhouse admission will cost a half buck more and box seats another quarter. Admission will be by the turnstile route and will include parking privileges. This system will enable the management to do away with cut-rate passes.

The final entry list for the $50,000 Belmont Stakes, No. 3 of the "Triple Crown" Stakes for three-year-olds, shows 48 candidates, including all of the best racers of that age in training. Topping the list is Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, hot favorite to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday and then to go on to victory in the Preakness and Belmont.

The New York sales tax hasn't bothered the hattermen at Jamaica. They were unusually active Monday, claiming five horses, even though two per cent of the money of all claims must be turned over to the city. The highest claim to date was 3000 paid by John Simonetti for Noroton.

Times at major tracks indicate that the thoroughbreds are stepping a lot faster now than they were a couple of weeks ago, when bad weather had retarded training considerably.

When Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Search won the Jamaica six-furlong feature yesterday in 1:11.45 it was

Galento-Baer Off to July 2

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—The 15-round heavyweight battle between Tony Galento and Max Baer scheduled for May 28 at Jersey City has been postponed to July 2, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today.

DEAD HEAT—Dinner Jacket and Berwyn race nose and nose to wire in fifth race of Tuesday card at Narragansett. Steel Knight finished third. Dinner Jacket paid $3.20, and Berwyn $4.40. Handle for the day was $298,163.

OLD MAN CARLETON HURLS NO HIT GAME

CINCINNATI, May 1 (INS)—Tex Carleton, only last year a discarded veteran, is now the hero of a sentimental saga called "Pop Makes Good" as he hurled the rampant Brooklyn Dodgers to a no-hit, no-run triumph, 3 to 0, over the Cincinnati Reds, National League champions of 1939.

The feat of the veteran right-hander, who will be 34 in August, was all the sweeter because his hall of fame stunt enabled the Dodgers to equal the modern major league record of nine straight victories to open the season. This mark was set by the New York Giants of 1918.

OSCARART WRECKS TURNER
Pete Oscarart caught hold of one of Jim Turner's shoos in the fifth inning with two men on base and two out and rocked it over the left field fence for a homer and all the Brooklyn tallies. Turner had previously passed Herman Franks and Carleton.

Carleton, starting with the fourth inning, turned back 17 Reds in a row, striking out four of them, through to the last fly from 1st Goodman's bat in the ninth. James Gito Carleton signified his jubilation by hugging Teammate Pee-wee Reese to his chest. It was a clinch between Carleton, the greybeard, and Reese, the rookie.

LAST SINCE FELLERS
The oldtimer, who won 11 and lost 9 for Milwaukee in 1939, thus recorded the first no-hitter of the campaign in the National League and the second of the major league. Bobby Feller, 21-year-old Cleveland speed-baller, tossed a no-hitter against the Chicago White Sox April 16, the opening day of the season.

was the initial no-hitter in the senior league since Johnny Vandermeer of the Reds humiliated Brooklyn at Ebbets Field on June 15, 1933. That was the second perfect game in a row for Vandermeer who four days before had goose-egged the Boston Bees on Crosley Field here. Carleton's was the third no-hitter of modern baseball pitched at this park.

TEX GETS REVENGE
To Carleton came revenge at its most glorious for during 1938, his last previous campaign in the majors, the Reds captured each of seven contests Tex toiled for the Chicago Cubs. In contrast to yesterday when he stretched a streak to record length, Tex then tamed the Pittsburgh Pirates after they had opened the year with a winning streak of seven.

The 185-pound product of Comanche, Tex., now living in Fort Worth, Tex., came up into the majors in 1932 when he caught on with the St. Louis Cardinals. From the Cardinals, he was shipped to the Cubs where he developed a sore arm which apparently doomed him as a major leaguer, for the Cubs dropped him, then into the American Association.

Some of his majors' cronies believed that Carleton was lacking in real grit. But Tex took himself to the minors and worked the soreness out of his hip, resolved to be ready if another chance happened along. The chance was given to him by President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers.

34 THEIR SWING SONG LEADS HUB HIT PARADE

EVENING 'AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1940

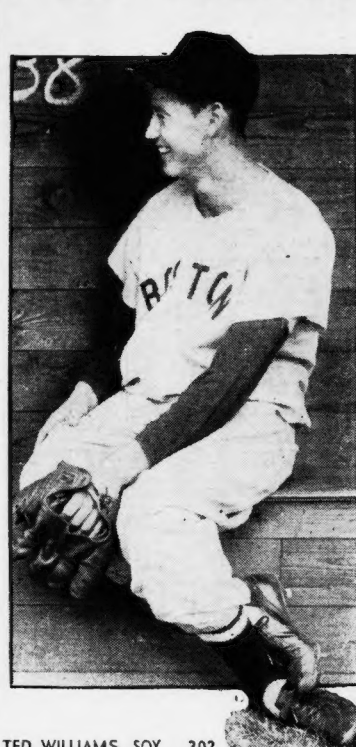

LOU FINNEY, SOX .289

CARVELL ROWELL, BEES .450

ROGER CRAMER, SOX .408

TED WILLIAMS, SOX .302

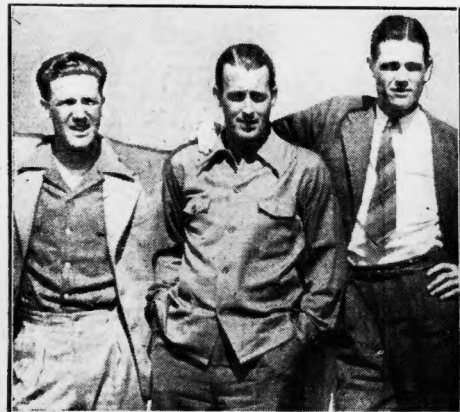

CHESTER ROSS, BEES .393

EDDIE MILLER, BEES .330

JIMMY FOXX should be in this group but every one knows it, then again we all know what he looks like. He is batting at a cool .405 pace.

NIFTY—Slick dressers, slick pitchers are these young Red Sox. Left to right: Mickey Harris, Emerson Dickman and Bill Butland. Harris has made two starts and won both. Dickman has made three starts, won only one but still looks like 20-game winner. Butland, 6-4, right hander from Minneapolis, has yet to appear but he's a fine prospect, nevertheless. He won 19 for Minneapolis last year.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1940

Entered as second-class matter at Boston Postoffice

700 Feet Up—Perched atop 700 foot Tylon (circle), Roy Yost, who hoped to get a parachute jumping job at the New York Fair, loses his nerve in demonstrating his art as trial parachute with dummy attached landed in pool of water. For more than an hour Yost (seen in inset) kept spectators in suspense until he was yanked to safety and arrested, charged with disorderly conduct.

Drama

His brother trapped in flaming Philadelphia house, Albert Block struggles with police and firemen in effort to rush into the blazing building. His brother died in fire.

Hero

As evidence of his extreme joy, Brooklyn manager Leo Durocher (left) almost squeezes the breath out of Tex Carleton after the latter hurled no-hit, no-run game against the Cincinnati Reds, the league champs.
